

975 Million Is Asked for WPA In House Funds Group's Report

Would Make All
Spendable in 8
Months if Needed

FEWER 'ABUSES'

Probe Group Says Worst
Situation Found in Louisiana

Washington—(AP)—A $975,650,000 WPA appropriation, spendable in eight months if necessary, was recommended today by the house appropriations committee, which reported a lessening of "abuses" in relief administration.

The WPA appropriation, which the committee approved as President Roosevelt had requested it, was part of a $1,111,754,819 emergency relief supply bill for the fiscal year beginning July 1. The committee sent the bill to the house floor.

At the same time it reported to the house the administration of relief heretofore had been marred by abuses including improvement of private property at public expense, over-managed projects, "padding sponsors' contributions," and inadequate supervision and operation of projects which a high percentage of non-relief labor was required.

Worst in Louisiana
The worst situation found by the WPA, the appropriations group said was in Louisiana, where some state officials have faced criminal charges. The committee's report declared it was "uncomprehensible" that federal relief, at least in Louisiana, was not cognizant of the waste and diversion and misapplication of funds.

The $975,650,000 WPA appropriation was compared with a $147,000,000 relief outlay for the full 12 months of the current year. The committee said the proposed sum would provide employment for an average of 1,530,900 persons in 1940, or 12 months of the current year.

Permission to use the money in eight months, if necessary, was recommended, the committee said, on President Roosevelt's request that this be done and in the light of reports showing a decline in industrial activities since January, when the chief executive made his original request for $975,650,000 for 12 months.

Includes Restrictions
The committee, without explaining why, wrote into the law restrictions on the total number of persons who could be employed in the five months from July 1 until after the November elections.

These restrictions were based on WPA's estimates of job needs, were a total of 1,700,000 persons for the months of July, August and September; 1,800,000 for October, and 2,000,000 for November.

House leaders arranged to take up the big relief measure today after completing work on the farm appropriation.

In addition to WPA funds the measure carried, as recommended by the appropriations committee, $115,000,000 for rural rehabilitation work of the agriculture department, a cut of $8,000,000 under Mr. Roosevelt's request; $3,500,000 for the Puerto Rico reconstruction administration; a cut of $4,500,000; and $1,700,000, the amount requested, for Indian service relief. Additional allowances for administrative work in connection with relief were also included in the bill's $1,111,754,819 total.

The measure represented a $343,075,084 reduction when compared with corresponding appropriations for the current fiscal year, the president's recommendations for the next year.

A Foul Hit Against Baseball

To save the arm of human pitchers, C. T. Barron, of Salem, N.H., has patented a robot baseball pitcher that can be adjusted to throw any type of curve. Of course that would take all the zip out of the game. No cheer leader, no matter how hot and screechy, could work up enough enthusiasm among the fans to make them heroize a pitcher to machine. If baseball is ever mechanized to that extent, the only place to look for winning hits will be among The Post-Crescent classified want-ads. This one was a crackjack:

German Conquest of Holland Exposes England to Air Raids

Britain Preparing for Attacks but Reports 'Highly Successful' Plane Battles Behind German Lines

London—(AP)—"Highly successful" British air attacks behind the German lines were reported today as the Nazi conquest of Holland hammered home to Britain her own exposure to aerial raiders.

Machine-gun fire sounded this morning near the mouth of the Humber river, along the English east coast.

Berlin broadcasts heard here sharpened Britain's anxiety and spurred recruiting of a new home-front army to fight a possible invasion by Nazi parachute troops.

"German planes already are within easy reach of the important English port of Harwich," a German announcer warned. "More than that, they have bases for direct attack against the whole of England."

Harwich is less than 125 miles from the Dutch mainland.

The air ministry said British fliers had given the French "valuable assistance" in the great battle which developed at Sedan and the crossings of the Meuse yesterday.

Britain's air force, it said, "destroyed permanent bridges and two pontoon bridges and with anti-aircraft guns brought down 15 German planes in a terrific battle near Sedan."

"Repeated low-flying attacks on enemy troops and tank concentrations were made."

It acknowledged loss of 35 British planes.

Even with German motorized troops reported pouring into the Hague, an authoritative Dutch source here said Netherlands troops in southern Holland who were able to reach Belgium were being made the nucleus of a new army to continue the fight against the Germans. There was no estimate of the number.

This source said most of Holland's navy left Netherlands waters and already had arrived at British ports.

Queen Wilhelmina, who fled to England with her government, is continuing to govern Holland's overseas empire from London.

England Decision
The Netherlands army was unopposed to the task of fighting off Germany's high-powered, up-to-the-minute war machine. Her air force was not strong enough to give the troops effective aid. Her defenses had been pierced and outflanked by the lightning German columns.

In a broadcast explaining his decision, General Winkelman told the people:

"I could not be otherwise... Our soldiers did their best. They held on."

Red Party Ruled Illegal in Canada

Three Sentenced to Prison For Issuing Anti-War Pamphlets

Ottawa, Ontario—(AP)—Justice Edgar Chevrier of the Ontario Supreme court today declared the Communist party of Canada to be an "illegal organization."

He sentenced Harry Binder, convicted of publishing and circulating anti-war pamphlets in violation of the defense of Canada regulations, to three years in the penitentiary and fined him $2,000.

The judge set an additional year's imprisonment as an alternative to the fine for the 26-year-old former parliamentary press gallery representative of the Clarion, banned Toronto Communist paper.

Louis Binder, 25, Harry's brother and a former private in the Royal Canadian Engineers, and Arthur Roy Saunders, 27, a dominion civil servant, were sentenced to two and one-half years in the penitentiary and were given a choice between an additional six months or a fine of $1,000 each.

Nazis Reach Dutch Ports, Cross Meuse Into France As Vast Battle Develops

French Await
New Drive in Sedan Sector

Say Germans Lose
Part of Gains After Crossing River

BULLETIN

Paris—(AP)—The French tonight ordered suspension of main passenger trains, effective at midnight, on a number of important lines near the Italian border.

The lines included those from Lyon to Menton on the Italian frontier; from Lyon to Geneva and Lyon to Belfort and Chambery, near the Swiss border, and also from Lyon to Grenoble and from Dijon to Besancon.

Paris—(AP)—Nazi forces smashing at French positions south of Sedan have crossed the Meuse river and established a salient four miles deep on the south side of the river, a French war ministry spokesman said today.

The German thrust originally penetrated 10 miles south of the river—or nearly 20 miles into France—this spokesman said, but a French counter-attack reduced this pocket below the river to about four miles.

He said the attack came late yesterday and a renewed German drive was expected today.

The Meuse river runs generally north and south in this area and the French have been holding the west bank against the Germans on the east.

German efforts in the Sedan region, this commentator said, appeared to be the "biggest" of the entire Meuse front extending southward from Namur, Belgium.

New Troops Arrive
Fresh reinforcements were arriving in the German lines from Belgium, industrial settlement north of Sedan.

In the Belgian Ardennes mountains between Namur and Dinant, the Germans established bridgeheads on the west bank of the Meuse which immediately drew strong counter-attacks from the French forces on the same side of the river.

A French military spokesman described German landings on the west side of the Meuse under allied fire from land and air.

A German tank attack in the level region northwest of Namur near Gembloux was hurled back by French counter-attacks.

The Germans were reported to have suffered "enormous losses."

Chicago Attorney Denies U. S. Charge Of 'Corrupt Perjury'

Chicago—(AP)—Attorney William Goldstein pleaded innocent today in federal court to a charge of "corrupt perjury." He was indicted Feb. 8 for giving false testimony to a grand jury investigating the income of William R. Skidmore.

Judge James H. Wilkerson set the trial for June 2. Goldstein has served as legal counsel for Skidmore, who, when he was indicted for evading $361,372 in income taxes, penalties and interest, was described by prosecutors as a key figure in Chicago's gambling syndicate.

The perjury indictment against Goldstein charged he had testified that one piece of Skidmore's property was not used for gambling purposes, although he was "well aware" that game was being conducted in the building because he saw perintended the management and handled the rent in the capacity of Skidmore's counsel.

European War Bulletins

London—(AP)—The air ministry announced tonight that 150 allied planes attacking German communications lines in the lowlands had broken up "large tank and troop concentrations" and blocked roads.

The announcement declared that the German advance in the Sedan sector had been halted by an air attack which was made yesterday.

Berlin—(AP)—The German high command announced tonight "the capitulation of the Dutch army" was signed at 11 a.m. today by the German commander-in-chief and the commander-in-chief of the Dutch army and navy.

London—(AP)—The British destroyer Valentine has been beached after being damaged by German air attack off the coast of Holland, the admiralty announced tonight. It said casualties were believed to have been slight. The 1,100-ton Valentine, classified technically as an escort ship in the British fleet, normally carried close to 200 men.

Bern, Switzerland—(AP)—Switzerland's mobilization is complete and "all the troops occupy the positions which have been assigned to them," the federal council and high command announced in a joint communique today.

New York—(AP)—Western Union and commercial cables today reported all cable communication with the Netherlands and Belgium was cut off suddenly during the morning.

London—(AP)—The British Press association said tonight the 3,000-ton Italian steamer Foscolo had sent a call for assistance after being attacked by German aircraft off the Dutch coast. The vessel's last port of call was Antwerp, Belgium.

Swiss Alert
As Germans
Span Rhine

Basel—(AP)—Swiss soldiers guarding the northern frontiers of their country kept their fingers literally on their machine-gun triggers today as German troops "practiced" spanning the Rhine river with pontoon bridges.

For the third time in as many days, Nazi engineers early this morning threw a bridge across the Rhine near the entrance to Lake Constance, where Germany holds a narrow strip of land on the south bank hemmed in by Swiss territory.

These maneuvers, coupled with many signs of German troop concentrations north of the Swiss border, strengthened fears here that Germany might supplement her drive through Belgium and the Netherlands by attempting to strike at France through Switzerland.

These fears apparently were shared by the British and French legations at Bern, which were reported to have burned official papers last night.

British Burn Papers
Crowds collected outside the British legation to watch as members of the diplomatic staff heaped documents on a bonfire. The French were understood to have followed the same procedure.

Some employees of both legations left Bern for Geneva yesterday with other records.

Switzerland, meanwhile, with a large part of her army of 600,000 men massed along the German border extended precautionary measures against "fifth column" activities.

In Zurich, Basel, Bern, Lausanne, Geneva and other cities police enforced a federal law requiring all foreigners to surrender arms in their possession.

Seize Weapons
By midnight last night the police in Geneva alone had collected 730 rifles and pistols from about 300 foreigners.

Militarized police, wearing steel helmets and carrying rifles, stood with soldiers on the outskirts of Bern checking the papers of all persons in incoming automobiles.

In Geneva and Zurich police rounded up foreigners whose papers were found out of order.

Every bridge within 100 miles of the frontier was mined, and well-armed troops guarded all radio stations, as well as telegraph and telephone centers.

Throughout all these preparations the Swiss paid particular care to avoid any action which might be construed as unneutral.

Plaintiff Loses His Damage Suit When Court Sees Movies

Ottawa, Ill.—(AP)—Second district appellate court judge watched movies of a plaintiff in a damage suit engaging in various sports, then ruled for the defendant today.

It was reported to be the first time before an appellate court in Illinois. The court held the pictures were admissible evidence.

The plaintiff, Peter McGorty, sued Harold G. Benhart for $50,000 damages, alleging he was injured in an automobile accident June 25, 1938, at Medinah road and Irving Park boulevard, Cook county, so seriously he could not bend over thereafter. Both McGorty and Benhart live in DuPage county.

Benhart's counsel introduced movies taken by a commercial photographer on June 20, 21, 23 and 25, 1938, purporting to show McGorty driving golf balls at a practice range, tossing a basketball, practicing a boat, swimming and tossing baseballs at a carnival.

A circuit court jury in DuPage county ruled in favor of the defendant, Benhart, and the appellate court did likewise today, upholding the jury finding.

Counter - Attacks Beaten Back, High Command Says

Claim Northwest Extension of Maginot Line Pierced; Also Report Two Belgian Forts at Namur Overwhelmed

Paris—(AP)—German forces which had forced a passage across the Meuse were reported at tonight's French war ministry conference to have pushed forward and pierced some allied positions along a line north of Sedan.

German tanks broke through allied positions on the west bank of the Meuse and were followed by infantry. The allied forces withdrew to new positions.

"The war of movement has begun," said a war ministry spokesman. "The situation is serious, but not critical."

The new threat to the allied lines came from the German thrust between Namur, Belgium and Sedan, which is 10 miles inside France.

Earlier the French had counter-attacked to check the German advance across the river south of Sedan, and had reduced a 10-mile German salient to four miles.

Tonight the Germans were reported to have made at least three crossings north of their main passage of the Meuse near Sedan.

Below Sedan, the French command reported that about half the German forces which crossed the river yesterday had been flung back.

Berlin—(AP)—The German high command declared today that Nazi forces had "pierced" the northwestern extension of France's Maginot line in the Sedan sector.

"By the crossing of the Meuse in the Sedan sector," its communique said, "the northwestern extension of France's fortification system—the Maginot line—has been pierced in closest collaboration with the air force."

"Here, too, French counter-attacks last frustrated with heavy losses for the enemy."

Caupless with the powerful thrust into the French section of the Meuse line was the Nazi report that a German spearhead aiming at the Belgian fortifications of Namur had overwhelmed two forts in that defense sector.

Authorized sources said the Germans had crossed the Meuse river Monday and, the same day, had conquered the forts of Lantin and Loucin, south and west of Liege.

Franklin Parents Request Improved School Facilities

The high command reported a French tank attack hurled back on the rapidly-developing Belgian front.

Alongside the progress on Meuse front, the Germans have forced the submission of Holland which, they note, has put the war almost on England's doorstep.

Report Allied Losses
The high command also reported telling blows to allied sea and air power.

Its communique put allied air losses at 200 planes yesterday alone—raising to about 1,400 the total reported destroyed in the six days of the campaign—and said "enemy efforts to hamper German fighting activity" through air attack were repulsed.

It acknowledged only that "35 of our own planes are missing."

"Armed reconnaissance before the Netherlands coast yielded great results."

Measure Seeking to Deport Harry Bridges

Washington—(AP)—The house committee on immigration gave its approval today to a bill introduced with the single purpose of deporting Harry Bridges, west coast labor leader.

Dean James M. Landis of Harvard Law school, acting as a special investigator for the labor department, recently held Bridges was not deportable.

"If alien radical agitators escape deportation through some technicality, then congress ought to step in and see that they are deported by congressional mandate," Allen said.

Butges, who is a native Australian now undergoing the naturalization process, has denied that he was a communist or advocated violent overthrow of the government.

Police in Italy Legation Up March on Legation

Rome—(AP)—Several hundred students who tried to march on the Yugoslav legation for a demonstration today were dispersed by police in nearby streets after they had threatened to mob a restaurant proprietor who advised them to "quit clowning and go back to school."

Italian troops had been posted at the legation earlier in the day—the first occasion that any show of military protection had been made at the legation since the pro-German anti-ally demonstrations began last weekend.

Martin L. Davey Is Nominated by Ohio Democrats

Former Governor Named To Oppose Republican Incumbent

Washington—While President Roosevelt and Senator Robert A. Taft were winning without opposition the Ohio delegations to the Democratic and Republican national conventions, yesterday's primary election in Ohio and West Virginia provided these highlights:

West Virginia: Senator Rush D. Holt, New Deal critic who was too young to take office when first elected in 1934, trailed for Democratic re-nomination; Senator M. M. Neely, his colleague, led for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Ohio: Democrats nominated former Gov. Martin L. Davey to oppose Gov. John W. Bricker, Republican running for a second term. For the senate seat of Vic Donahey, retiring Democrat, former Rep. John McSweeney led on the Democratic ticket and Mayor Harold Burton of Cleveland and Senator John White were running neck and neck for the Republican nomination.

Senator Holt was running third against Judge Harley M. Kilgore, the leader, and former Governor H. G. Kump. The vote:

In 992 of 2,379 precincts, Kilgore 30,877, Kump 47,878, Holt 33,864.

Senator Neely was aligned with Kilgore in a battle against McSweeney.

Neely apparently was winning over state chairman R. Carl Andrews.

The vote in 1,150 precincts: Neely 55,831, Andrews 65,614.

State Senator Thomas B. Sweeney 37, was ahead of three political veterans in the Republican senatorial contest, while Mayor D. Boone Dawson of Charleston appeared to have clinched the Republican nomination for senator.

Each major party chose 16 uninstructed delegates to the national conventions. Neely, who favors President Roosevelt's re-nomination, led the Democratic list.

Ohio Pledged In Ohio the 52 Democratic national convention votes nominally were pledged to national committeeman Charles Sawyer, but he is a third-party supporter and the delegation actually will support Mr. Roosevelt if he runs.

There was a seven-man field for the Democratic nomination for governor, but Davey took an early lead, with former Gov. George White running second. Davey was defeated for re-nomination in 1938 in the midst of a fight with the Roosevelt administration over old age pension funds.

The vote in 2,946 of 8,624 precincts was Davey 76,727, White 30,201.

In the Democratic senatorial race, McSweeney had 62,144 votes against 38,306 for Herbert Bigelow, pension-plan sponsor with 2,333 precincts reporting. On the Republican ticket, Mayor Burton had 104,198 to 105,084 for Rep. White in 3,916 precincts.

Stafford Attacks Utility Companies, State Administration

Loyal—Harold E. Stafford, Chippewa Falls attorney, mentioned as a candidate for the Progressive nomination for governor, declared last night that the 1938 fall campaign "proved to be a blitzkrieg against the farmers and laborers of Wisconsin."

Stafford, who spoke at a Clark county Progressive meeting, termed the state administration a "fifth column" which "took possession of the Maginot line set up by the Progressives to guard against infiltration by the utilities."

He charged that the rural electrification program brought cheap electric energy to more than 32,000 farm and rural homes in the state after the utilities "had previously refused to serve these farm homes" except at higher rates than prevailed in Minnesota.

Corcoran Contractor Cut Wood on State Land

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Byron Selves, Burnett county timber contractor who testified that 90 per cent of his timber is sold to James A. Corcoran, chairman of the state conservation commission and a lumberman, told the state research bureau here yesterday that he cut timber on state-owned lands before a trade with the state conservation department was legally completed.

Continuing hearings in its investigation of the conservation department's land exchange policies, the bureau also heard Selves testify that in two of the trades he made with the state, he cut more timber than his contract allowed.

In the first deal, he said, the excess was 168 cords, which was made up in a second exchange three years later. Overcutting again in the latter trade, he was assessed for the amount by the conservation department, it was shown.

Selves was questioned by the bureau, as was Corcoran before him, on the exchange of certain lands with the state conservation department, by which Selves obtained timber rights on the state lands.

Fornary drew the information that Selves started cutting on the state tracts in the fall of 1936, although the governor didn't sign the transfer until April of the next year.

"Didn't you know that the approval of the governor was necessary before this deal was consummated," demanded Fornary.

"I knew nothing of the mechanics whatever," Selves responded.

Demand Answer After a brief quarrel, arising when Commissioner August Frey of the bureau, refusing to allow Selves to make an extended statement on the history of the land exchange under examination, Selves refused to tell when he learned that the governor, besides the conservation commission and the attorney general, must approve all transfers of state lands.

Fornary then observed that "if this gentleman doesn't want to answer when he knows the answers, I think we can force him to answer."

Selves replied, however, that "I don't know," whereupon Frey cut in to demand "don't be so damn cocky."

Asked about the over-cutting on the state sections, Selves said that he did so with the authority of Fred G. Wilson, superintendent of the division of forestry.

During the hearings this week, Fornary has persistently sought to show that Corcoran, as a member of the state conservation commission, benefited financially as a pulpwood dealer by approving the exchange of state lands to Selves, from whom he buys timber.

Fornary succeeded in bringing out that the pulpwood taken from the lands exchanged by the state were sold to, and marketed by Corcoran, but his allegation that Selves is a "business associate" of Corcoran has drawn insistent denials from both men.

Yesterday Selves testified that he sells 90 per cent of his product to Corcoran, but only because the latter offers him the best price.

"You offer me more and you'll get it," he told Frey and Fornary.

Used Corcoran's Tools Fornary produced affidavits and records to show that Selves' camps and the operations on the lands involved in the state exchange, used Corcoran's funds, his tools, and that the timber was shipped in Corcoran's name to the Nekoosa-Edwards Paper company.

Selves declared, however, that it is a common custom for dealers to finance the operations of contractors' operations, to pay the bills and to meet the payroll, and to lend tools. Such procedure merely represents an advance, he said. The shipments were made in Corcoran's name to the paper mill, he added, because Corcoran has a contract with the mill, which Selves has not.

Frey, upon Selves' insistence that he could not ship the pulpwood taken from the state lands to the paper company under any name except that of Corcoran's, because of the latter's contract to supply wood to the paper firm, remarked:

"That has all the earmarks of trying to cover up something."

When Fornary asked: "Isn't it a fact that every time the state makes a land exchange, the timber goes to Corcoran?" Selves replied:

"How the hell should I know that?"

Later this week, it is expected, the research bureau will extend its examination to the fiscal operations of the state fisheries division, which has developed a mass production fish propagation program in recent years, and the state game and fur farm at Poyntette, which has frequently been the target of private commercial game breeders.

Hitler Engaged in Dangerous Operation as He Attempts to Drive Wedge in Allied Front

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE New York—The great German offensive along the line of the Meuse river in Belgium had swollen to hurricane crescendo this morning, with the focal point on the historic battlefield of Sedan, just inside the French border and within the Maginot line defenses.

Hitler's win-all or lose-all gamble was hitting its stride fast. A few hours now should see the allies and invaders joined in one of the crucial, if not the most momentous, battles of all time.

Already the indications are that the slaughter has been heavy. The Nazis are throwing their forces into the assault with the old Napoleonic abandon.

Human life won't mean much over there from now on.

Word from Paris is that the allied strategy had contemplated the turn which events have taken and that the Anglo-French plans provide for a stand in the region which has now been reached.

Bloody Fighting The battle-line is long and there has been bloody fighting throughout its length. It means that the great fortresses of Liege westward along the Meuse to the fortress of Namur, then (till abruptly south along the line of the river through Dinant to Sedan.

It is at Sedan, however, that the Hitlerian forces are trying to drive a wedge in the allied front, for a break through to Paris and the channel ports.

This is a dangerous operation for the assaulting army, since if it succeeds in breaking through it must roll the enemy back both north and south and run the heavy risk of having its own rear-head pinched off by a counter-attack.

The Germans claim to have "pierced" the Maginot line at Sedan, but the French assert that the Nazi thrust was thrown back.

Word from Paris this morning bespoke allied confidence. Certainly it can remind the readers that the allies more than once in the World War faced situations in which defeat seemed inevitable—but they lived to fight another day. All of which is by way of saying that a battle never is won or lost until the white flag is run up.

Overwhelming Strength The Dutch this morning were still struggling to hold the province of Zeeland in the southwest corner of their little country, but the surrender of their troops in the rest of the Netherlands was complete and quite expected. They couldn't hold out long against the overwhelming strength opposed to them.

Zeeland presumably is being held as a protection to the important Belgian city of Antwerp just to the south. If the Germans overrun Zeeland it must be expected that they also will get Antwerp.

Nazi occupation of the Dutch coast raises a grave threat against Britain. The Nazis now will have airports close to England for the attack which they have been threatening. A Nazi radio announcer for instance boasted today that German planes now are less than 125 miles away from the important port of Harwich.

The British already are organizing defense against a possible parachute landing in England. Their greatest danger, however, is to their east ports and shipping, which now will be laid open to the Nazi bombers, except for the British air fleet and anti-aircraft defenses.

Many of England's supplies come in through these ports, especially London. And their troop reinforcements and military supplies for France must cross the channel.

Threat to Blockade The occupation of Holland obviously is a potential threat to the allied blockade.

I wonder how many of us have paused to consider as this crucial battle has rolled across the changing map of Europe that the allied cause depends in large degree on the quickness of decision and far-sightedness of a stocky little man of 67 whose lack of personal showmanship has left him in the background where he likes to be.

He's the Frenchman, Maurice Gamelin, one of the world's greatest specialists on war and commander-in-chief of all the allied forces.

Gamelin—unemotional, quiet, methodical, tenacious, possessor of a prodigious memory, and natural-born tactician.

Gamelin—kindly, simple of taste, whose idea of an enjoyable evening is to spend it in the quiet of his own home reading (what no one guesses) philosophy.

He's the allied man of the hour. That's not a new role for him, however, and the story is worth repeating here as the gunfire swells along the Meuse.

A quarter-century ago, not far removed from the present scene of bloodshed, the French were making a last-ditch stand before the gates of Paris to stem the seemingly invincible rush of the German hordes at the outbreak of the World War.

Gamelin, then a major in his dapper uniform, was one of the few who saw the situation clearly.

High Court to Hear Fishing Arguments

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The state supreme court has notified commercial fishermen that it will hear arguments June 4 on the fishermen's appeal from the Dane county circuit court ruling upholding the validity of the conservation commission's order restricting fishing on Green Bay and the Great Lakes.

Fishermen contend that the commission's exercise of authority over their business is unconstitutional and that the legislature itself must make the laws governing commercial fishing.

forties, was one of French Commander Joffre's chief aides.

In the darkest moment of this crisis the quick mind of Gamelin detected a weakness in the German position and recommended an immediate attack. Joffre trusted his man. The attack was made. The invaders were defeated and thrown back, and the entire course of the war was changed, for Gamelin had turned the German strategy topsy-turvy.

While many people floundered among high-sounding designations in an effort to find a name for this epic battle, little Gamelin quietly named it himself. He called it "The Battle of the Marne."

Physician Held For Manslaughter In Death of Wife

Letter From Dead Woman Accuses Widower of Responsibility

Milwaukee—Dr. L. A. Van Ellis was arraigned on a first degree manslaughter charge today a short time after District Attorney Herbert Steffes made public a letter in which the defendant's wife accused him of responsibility for her suicide.

The 37-year-old wife of the physician died April 11 after taking an over-dose of sleeping tablets, leaving a letter addressed to Steffes.

In the event of my death through suicide I want the punishment for the murder put on those responsible. For it will be murder since my husband, Dr. L. A. Van Ellis, has given me the pills to accomplish this.

Dr. Van Ellis, 40-year-old physician and surgeon of suburban Wauwatosa, was arrested yesterday. Arraigned in district court this morning, he was granted an adjournment to May 29, when he will be given a preliminary hearing. Judge Harvey Neelen denied his plea for a reduction of the $10,000 bond on which he is at liberty.

The state charged the physician knew his wife had taken a fatal dose of a sleeping potion, yet did nothing about it for several hours. Van Ellis found his wife dead in bed April 11 shortly after he had lunch.

State Progresses in Kettle Moraine Recreation Program

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Substantial progress has been made in the acquisition of lands for what is the most ambitious state park project undertaken to date, the development of the Wisconsin kettle moraine area as a public recreation ground.

The kettle moraine strip runs from a point near Two Rivers, on the Lake Michigan shore, east through Manitowish, Sheboygan and Calumet counties to Lake Winnebago, and south in eastern Wisconsin through Walworth and Kenosha counties. It is being developed to serve the most heavily populated part of Wisconsin, the eastern and southern counties.

The state thus far has acquired about one sixth of the total of 30,000 acres which the program contemplates for state ownership in the region, according to state conservation department officials. Last week the conservation commission approved the expenditure of about $25,000 for additional purchases.

Funds for the undertaking are provided by a 1937 legislative enactment making available $75,000 annually from the state forestry mill tax, which produces about $1,000,000 annually in a levy on property.

About 30 per cent of the land already acquired, generally hilly, has already been reforested, according to C. L. Harrington, state superintendent of forest and parks. In contrast to the northern Wisconsin reforestation work, the kettle moraine section is getting generous plantings of southern hardwoods.

School planting projects have also been started in some localities in the parkway section.

Kenneth Jorgenson, track man of the local high school, is in the Waukegan hospital and clinic recovering from injuries to his knee in a recent track practice.

Mrs. Tom Browne who was seriously injured two weeks ago when the car in which she and her husband were returning from Oshkosh in a snow storm collided with a Pope brothers truck, will be confined to the hospital for some time. Attorney Browne has been released from the hospital with less serious injuries.

Lillian Vande Yacht Will Be Queen of Prom

Lutheran Pupils Will Stage Public Pageant

Kaukauna—Lutheran school students will present a public pageant, "Glories of summer," at 8 o'clock Friday evening in the school auditorium. The production has a cast of 32.

Exhibit of Relics To be Displayed at Municipal Building

Kaukauna—Plans are now under way to assemble relics of early days at the municipal building for exhibition as part of Kaukauna's sesquicentennial celebration, according to Edward F. Renniecke, general chairman. Two large showcases have been procured to contain the objects.

Anything that was used in the early days is desired for exhibit, Renniecke explained. Objects such as clothing, garden implements, kitchen utensils, tools, furniture, jewelry, newspapers and books, dishes, games, firearms, coins, ornaments and portraits will be welcome. Some objects already have been loaned to the museum for display.

Mrs. H. F. Weekwerth is in charge of the exhibit, with Miss Alicemay Whitteer assistant. Miss Whitteer is at the committee's office on the first floor of the municipal building daily to receive and catalog items. Entries will be returned when the celebration closes in September.

Franklin Parents Request Improved School Facilities

Franklin school has been shifted to Columbus school and sixth grade classes are conducted at Roosevelt High school. He said he thought any parent was justified in complaining if a child was forced to go to a school seven blocks away when there was one across the street.

Members of the committee felt the transfer of children to Columbus school created additional traffic hazards for them to cross Wisconsin avenue and Oneida street. They also expressed the opinion that a child should not have to attend three different schools during the course of his elementary education.

Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, assured the group that "we will study the problem and seek an adequate solution." Dr. George T. Hegner, school commissioner, acknowledged the need of additional facilities because of the growth of the city in that direction and said the board already had spent considerable time on the subject. He said erection of the new senior high school had stalemated all plans for improving the grade school system. He said the board has hopes of relieving the Washington school situation also but it would be up to the city council to appropriate the necessary funds.

"Most Cheaply" Built The committee's communication to the board said Franklin school was constructed in 1907 to relieve the crowded condition of the Columbus school and, according to an alderman, never was completed according to original plans. Mr. Rohan said it was the "most cheaply" built school in the system.

Other points of the analysis follow: "In the superintendent of schools' report of 1935, the situation was recognized and the fact stated that the sixth grade had to be transferred to Roosevelt Junior high school to afford temporary relief. In 1938, the fifth grade was transferred to Columbus school as a further necessity. The report further states 'This district presents a school housing problem.'

"Ninety-six per cent of the parents contacted in the district expressed dissatisfaction with the present arrangement of their children having to attend three different schools to complete their grade school education.

Sharp Increase "From the 1935 superintendent's report, from 1925 to 1935 this district showed an increase in the school census of 38 per cent, which was by far the greatest per cent of increase in any district. From 1935 to 1938, this district increased 4.1 per cent, while the next highest was 1.3 per cent, with a decline in the First, Second and Third wards.

"At present there are 40 pupils in the fifth grade at Columbus school and 36 in the sixth grade at Roosevelt who reside in the Fourth and Sixth wards which, with the 282 present enrollment of Franklin school, makes a total of 358 which should be housed in the Franklin school building.

"A house-to-house canvass completed in the last month disclosed that there were 413 families having children of school and pre-school ages ranging as follows: 1 year and under, 54; 1 to 2 years, 45; 2 to 3 years, 77; 3 to 4 years, 88.

"The canvass further disclosed that, with one or two exceptions, those children of kindergarten age were attending Franklin school kindergarten. At present in the afternoon kindergarten there are 56 pupils. Next fall, based on the canvass there will be 88 enrolled, plus tuition students not accounted for and directly south of Wisconsin avenue. This situation means that there will be an additional kindergarten required.

"Thirty-three pupils are scheduled to advance into first grade, 55 into second, 56 into third and 30 into fourth. This would then mean a building load of three kindergarten rooms, two first grade, two second grade, two third grade and one fourth grade, a total of 10 rooms, or two needed additional rooms, with the fifth and sixth grades still housed elsewhere.

"The tuition student represents an additional factor which has not been taken into account in the future school load. There are 23 tuition students in Franklin school at present and probably many more should attend this school because of proximity. These students can be shuffled into under-pupilled schools; however, a correction of the Fourth and Sixth ward grade school housing could easily provide for the tuition situation of the adjacent territory and thereby perhaps correct another problem.

Building Growth "Another barometer which has paralleled the school census increase and which definitely forecasts a continued increase in the future can be taken from the building records. Few will not admit that the major growth of Appleton is into the Fourth and Sixth wards and will continue in this direction for some time to come.

"In the area north of Wisconsin avenue and to the city limits bounded by Meade street and Richmond street there were 795 homes as of Jan. 1, 1938.

"There were 130 new homes built in the city of Appleton during 1938. Of these, 37 were built within the above district. In other words, 283 per cent of the new homes built were in this section, which area comprises less than 7 per cent of the total area of the city.

"In 1939 there were 140 new homes built in Appleton and, of

"successes," it added. "As previously reported in a special announcement, two cruisers and one destroyer were sunk by bomb hits, an additional cruiser was struck by a bomb, one merchant ship of 29,000 tons and four transports were destroyed."

Hour after hour, starting early in the morning, all German radio stations broke in on their programs with appeals to the Belgian soldiers to lay down their arms.

In Flemish and in French the soldiers were told that Germany does not wish to harm the Belgian people, that the German invasion of Belgium was brought about because Great Britain and France were getting ready to attack Germany through Belgium.

Success of the Nazi forces in their lightning campaign in the Netherlands was hailed by morning papers throughout the country. One authoritative commentator described the achievement of Adolf Hitler's military machine, in bringing down a "well-armed nation of over 8,000,000" in a little more than 100 hours, as "unique in history."

There were numerous if unofficial indications that the next major German blow may be delivered against England.

One evidence of this trend came from the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, which said:

"The enemy now is getting the war which it provoked. All illusions of a distant and blockade war, of protection behind powerful fortification works, have been brushed away."

Others took occasion to point out that with German possession, the air force and the submarine fleet would be able practically to paralyze shipping to and from Britain's east coast, as well as to inflict heavy losses on the British navy whenever and wherever its warships appear in these waters.

these, 50 were built within the Fourth and Sixth wards, or 35 per cent.

Members of the fact-finding committee were Crane, E. C. Junge, Kersten, D. C. Lehman, G. R. McIntyre, B. W. Rowland, J. Trautman and A. D. Wilkinson.

Auxiliary Unit at Kimberly Planning Annual Poppy Sale

Kimberly—The Poppy sale will be held in the village Saturday, May 25, and is being sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary. Mrs. B. J. Ouellette is chairman of the sale and will select her co-workers. As in other years a house-to-house canvass will be made and poppies will be sold at the mill entrance during the day.

The auxiliary's spring conference will be held at Kaukauna on Thursday. At a meeting of the Kimberly organization Monday evening, 15 women from the Kaukauna auxiliary were guests. Mrs. Mary Briggs of Niagara Falls, N. Y., formerly of Kimberly, attended the meeting Monday.

The auxiliary voted to donate $15 to the Girl Scout organization, toward the purchase of badges. After the business session Monday, cards were played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. O. H. Ehke, and Mrs. Clarence Fieweger, at bridge; Mrs. C. Kioch and Mrs. J. Rager, at cards; Kaukauna, at schafkopf; Mrs. A. Schubring, Kaukauna, and Mrs. Glen Swick, Kimberly, at rummy.

The sewing committee consisted of Mrs. L. O. Mauthe, Mrs. Henry Henry, Mrs. Arthur Schneese, Mrs. Henry Vanden Boogaard and Mrs. Anton Vanden Boom. Thirty-five members were present at the meeting.

Seventh and eighth grade pupils of the public school entertained their mothers Friday in honor of Mother's Day. The program started with singing by the entire class. "How Do You Do, Mother Dear," concluding the program "My Mom" was sung by the group, during which time each mother was presented with a corsage. John Girard was master of ceremonies and Carol Tiedeman, mistress of ceremonies.

particularly in tanks and their crews, and a 4-to-1 ratio in planes. The situation of the allies in central Belgium was described "favorable."

Part of the German force which crossed the Meuse south of Sedan was hurled back into the river.

Heavy French forces pushed eastward against the Germans.

The German troops were described as the "best" shock detachments. Additional reinforcements were arriving from Neu-chateau, Belgium, and also coming in behind German lines from Marche, Belgium.

French and British aerial forces, meanwhile, were laying down "tons and tons" of bombs on German rear lines, troop concentrations, highways, boats and bridges.

German planes were reported bombing the French rear guard. East of the Moselle river in the Mazinot line sector, several "very strong" local German attacks ran into defense fire from French advance posts and halted.

Air Raid Alarms Air-raid alarms were sounded this morning in the regions around Rouen, Havre and Bordeaux, but no attacks were reported.

While the Netherlands' military campaign apparently had ended with the general staff's order, it was understood the Netherlands fleet still was cooperating with the allies.

Both sides were using the most modern arms, including big fleets of armored cars and tanks, thousands of planes and the newest types of guns.

One German attack was reported to have been pointed by flame-throwing tanks which shot fire 70 yards in the World War flame apparatus with 15-yard range was nearly as dangerous to the handlers as to the intended victims.

Sedan, strategic French city fought over by Germans and French throughout history, was the principal southern anchor of the front which curved to the northeast and then northwest into the coastal plains of Belgium.

Battle Developing Southward from Sedan the line extended through Longwy, France, near the Luxembourg border, there joining the comparatively inactive front between France and Germany. The French expressed confidence that despite the fact Sedan and the Belgian cities of Liege, Namur and Dinant were held all or in part by the Germans, the French staff had foreseen this line of attack and would have its strategy at the opportune moment.

Military observers declared that the battle of the Meuse rapidly was developing into "the greatest battle in history."

The Belgian defenders were reported to be resisting strongly on the northern section of the front.

Frederic Hubert Pleriot, in a broadcast to the nation said the Belgians had made "certain modifications of defense positions according to order" and insisted there had been no German "break through."

The Liege fortifications, he said, were taking a terrific toll of Germans attacking time and again. The capture of Liege has been claimed by the German high command.

The Belgian government asserted it would remain in Brussels, objective of the German drive through Belgium.

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

In the buildup compiled by various departments of the federal government for the St. Lawrence seaway, and published about six years ago, the claim was made that the seaway would handle approximately 11,500,000 tons of traffic which would create a "saving" to the public of 79 million dollars a year.

That report was made early in the present administration's Washington stay and before political engineers had been brought onto the platform or at least prior to the acquaintance of the public with their deft method of pulling rabbits out of coattails.

The people may be pardoned for looking at any of these buildup figures with a very skeptical eye when they reflect upon the probability that the figures were devised by the same fellows who were going to harness the tides at Quoddy and advance all other sorts of foolish ventures including expeditions for Captain Kidd's buried treasure.

At least the figures quoted above become more shadowed when we see them disputed by the Niagara Frontier Planning Board which never had anything to do with a political engineer.

That board's report on the St. Lawrence seaway is presented with an array of argument and statistics that, with the flimsy record of the New Deal engineers, raises many more doubts concerning the promises of the seaway. Instead of 11,500,000 tons of freight the Niagara board reaches the conclusion that 6,677,000 tons would be the maximum amount available for any given year. Instead of a 79 million dollar "saving" to the public the board fixes this saving at but $8,822,000, drawing attention to the fact that while an aggregate "saving" of $15,211,000 might be computed the ice would keep the seaway closed "42 per cent of the year," a fact that political promoters never mentioned.

Since our government these days seldom shows its true hand but dolls and paints up its ideas in any sort of clothes that will please the public fancy it must be remembered that the St. Lawrence project is not trotted forth for transportation purposes but to create a tremendous amount of hydro-electric power. The transportation phase is employed to lead the people astray respecting the real purpose, the true amounts to be spent, and the end to be achieved.

With all these facts in mind, instead of the one-sided buildup written by the sweet singers of Washington, the individual may more accurately judge the possibilities.

WAR DEBTS, OTHER DEBTS AND THE FUTURE

Under Woodrow Wilson this country borrowed about 25 billion dollars for the purpose of trying to improve the world, and particularly that part of it called Europe.

During the 12 years after Wilson the debt was cut to about 16 billions.

In the last seven years it has shot up to nearly 45 billions.

The perspective ahead is far from rosy or pleasant. Alteration in fighting methods and equipment necessitates the expenditures by this country of billions in self-defense. The possibility of attack, while remote, must always be considered. If we were put to the task and duty of raising a great army again the financial security we had always known up to the days of the idealists would be gone forever.

It is not altogether certain by any means but what the people in a democracy at times act with as little intelligence for their welfare and their future as the people in a country that knows a democracy not.

WAR LANGUAGE

World War No. 1 gave birth to some of the finest passages that were ever formed by words.

If the student of men and their wars will go through the public documents that emanated from the pens of statesmen in every beleaguered capital he will be struck by the moving drama of emotion which even a Shakespeare could not parallel in peacetime.

Britain's new prime minister in his first address to Parliament told a story and outlined a policy in comparatively few words, every one of which beat upon the sensibilities of men like a multitude of triphammers.

Mr. Churchill said:

"I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat.

"Our policy is to wage war by sea, land and air with all our might and with all the strength that God can give us and to wage war against a monstrous tyranny never surpassed in the dark and lamentable catalog of human crime.

"Our aim can be stated in one word—it is victory—victory at all costs in spite of all terrors."

One of the virtues of war—and unfortunately war has a considerable number of virtues—is the necessity for straight-forwardness of speech in the nations involved, however little of this quality may be employed against the enemy.

"CHALLENGE TO YOUTH"

The genius of General Motors, Charles F. Kettering, who heads its research department, delivered a notable address recently to American college students.

Mr. Kettering didn't tell how much he knew but spoke of the many things he didn't know. In fact, he listed 25 items that puzzled mankind and inferred that youth would do well to tackle them. Here are some: How plants fix the sun's energy; what makes glass transparent and metals opaque; how do fuels burn in an engine cylinder; what is electricity, magnetism and the fatigue of metals; what is the nature of light and other electro-magnetic waves; what is the nature of the atom, molecule and electron; what is the nature of harmonies and vitamins; how may farm products be used most effectively; what is the reason for solubility; what is energy; what are the demands of a lubricant and how does it work; what is immunity to disease?

Mr. Kettering may have assumed that the youth of the land knows all about politics, government and the happy, generous mental processes of despots because he asked nothing and seemed to care nothing concerning the fields mentioned.

But the smart youth of the country, the fellows who will really get some place some day, will pay attention to Mr. Kettering's questions for in the correct answers will be found genuine progress. Imagine the achievements if steel could be made transparent!

Mr. Kettering and other industrial leaders of America, if unfettered, could open to youth extensive fields for mental and physical activity. But there are numerous young men and women who turn away from such fields even when pointed out to them. They will have nothing to do with the sweat and grime of practical problems. The magnet for them is something like the American Youth Congress, whose leaders recently seemed intent upon trying to remain adolescents forever. The misguided ones probably look upon men like Kettering as their "class enemies." But the ones who so teach them will be found to have nothing for them unless it be loafing in a soup line or dropping on a battlefield.

DON'T BE PIKERS, BOYS

At Washington the House has passed the Rankin bill to pension widows, children and parents of every deceased World War veteran irrespective of the cause of his death.

The opposition advanced the thin and superficial argument that these pensions would result in reducing funds available for widows and orphans of men killed in action and for the disabled veterans whose disability was directly attributable to their war-time services, or eventually would increase the deficit and the towering national debt.

Why get technical about trivial things in this age of munificence?

The reasoning that underlies all these raids upon the treasury runs true to pattern. It is based upon the knowledge that the administration when it speaks of economy does so with tongue in cheek. That talk is for the benighted citizens but receives no attention from the head of any department.

Why, it may be reasoned, if we can spend nearly a billion and a half a year to pay an average of nearly $100 a week to the 300,000 members of the Praetorian Guard whose sole duties consist of applauding the administration, demanding third terms, making heart-rending speeches and initiating "Save the Country" movements, cannot we toss another billion into the next loan from the banks?

On with the mad dance!

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

ANOTHER LITTLE BOY!
(For Bruce)

Another little boy has come
To make the Spring world glad!
There is more happiness at home
Because of one dear lad!

The birds trill with a deeper song!
The crocus blooms with joy.
The tulips pass the word along:
Another little boy!

There will be laughter in the house
For many happy years.
A little child can still arouse
Our hopes and dry our tears.

What better way to start the Spring!
Now we have to enjoy
And share its hopeful blossoming,
Another little boy!

THE CENSUS STARTS

Secretary Hopkins sounded a harmonious note as the census takers prepared to start on their work today. "The census," he said, addressing the 250,000 enumerators, "is not an inquisition. It is a cooperative enterprise of free people for the common welfare. . . . Be polite and patient. Show your credentials willingly." If the little army of information seekers act in the spirit of these admonitions, there need be no trouble or embarrassment.

The citizen who is briefly on the grill may not see the use of all the questions. He should remember that what seems trivial information about one family may be highly significant when it is compiled for all families. His personal privacy is guarded if he wishes it to be. It is guarded in any case from the moment it reaches Washington. No one who has seen the tabulating machines at work in the Bureau of the Census can doubt their impersonality. The individual disappears. He is ground up—figuratively speaking—into a kind of statistical sausage.

One hopes that all over the country today police and patient enumerators will be chatting with a polite and patient public. That is the way things should be.—New York Times.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—Behind the president's speech to the American Scientific conference was a very serious matter over the protection of the Western Hemisphere.

The president threw aside a speech which had been prepared for several days before, and during the tense hours just after Holland and Belgium were invaded he dictated a new draft which emphasized the importance of Pan-American unity, plus force, to protect these continents. He even raised the question whether the American nations could stand idly by while dictators conquer the rest of the world.

Behind all this were some very careful studies which the president and his naval and military strategists have been making of Western Hemisphere defense.

It may sound like scare headlines, but it is no exaggeration to say that to the strategists who take out paper and pencil to figure on protecting the U.S.A. Nazi activities in Norway, Denmark, Holland and Belgium have meant the very definite scrapping (for the first time in our 164-year history) of George Washington's Farewell address on American isolation.

Here is how the strategists figure it out. The keystone of American defense has been:

1. A big navy in the Pacific.

2. Friendship with Great Britain, which rules the waves of the Atlantic.

Assuming that the British fleet should disappear from the Atlantic, the United States would then have to maintain two fleets—one for the Pacific and one for the Atlantic. And it would take at least four years to build a new fleet for the Atlantic.

REAR HERRING

One of the weapons of modern war is the rear herring. Honor has departed from warfare. The Nazis used subterfuge to get into Norway, German aviators dressed in Dutch uniforms to land in Holland, Italy maneuvered in the Mediterranean to keep the British from sending too many ships to Scandinavia. Mussolini was the red herring.

Therefore, it is not unreasonable to figure that if Germany ever wanted to land troops in the Western Hemisphere, Japan would be the red herring, would send her fleet toward Hawaii. Probably she would not land in Hawaii, but merely maneuver enough to keep the U. S. fleet in the Pacific, prevent it from protecting the Atlantic coast.

At present only four cruisers, plus one small airplane carrier and some decrepit destroyers, guard the Atlantic. Before the Pacific fleet could return through Panama to the Atlantic, Germany could land all the troops she wanted in Trinidad, or Puerto Rico, or the northern tip of South America.

Military minds calculate that German troops even could be landed in Newfoundland which has, at St. John's, one of the best airports in the world. And from Botwood, they could land in Maine about as fast as United States forces could concentrate against them.

Germany, however, is not likely to bother with New England. Far wealthier, far more important are the oil fields of Venezuela, the tropical plantations of Brazil, the wheat fields of Argentina. Here there are large groups of German and Italian settlers. And here, rather than in the more crowded areas of Europe, are the real outlets for excess German population.

ROOSEVELT TALKS

The four Iowa congressional leaders who called on the president the other day heard something which left their mouths agape. For Roosevelt told them categorically that he was not a candidate for re-election.

While they were still gasping, he delivered another stunner—that he had never seriously entertained the idea of running again.

The four callers—Senators Herring and Gillette, Representatives Jacobson and Harrington—had arrived to discuss a proposal that Roosevelt endorse a "harmony" ticket similar to the one patched up in Texas. The plan was engineered by Gillette to bloc an Iowa third-term delegation.

Roosevelt was non-committal, taking the position that it was up to the Iowa leaders. But then, speaking with a frankness he has seldom displayed, he explained that his silence on the third term was dictated by international considerations.

Had he stated his intentions a year ago, Roosevelt declared, it would have greatly impaired the government's position in the desperate efforts to preserve peace. With FDR definitely out of the picture and a battle royal raging for the nomination, foreign powers would have paid little attention to the United States because of uncertainty over its policy under the new administration.

"There would have been confusion and chaos," the president said, in effect. "We would have approached the election as a house divided instead of a harmonious whole."

Roosevelt also pointed out that by his remaining silent the field of possible successors had been confined to experienced and known leaders, to the exclusion of "overnight sensations." He recalled how Calvin Coolidge, little known as Governor of Massachusetts, overnight became a national figure by claiming he quelled the Boston police strike.

Remember the Liberty League which crusaded against the New Deal in 1936? And remember J. Edgar Hoover, his dapper head, who was a crony of Al Smith and the duPonts? Well, J. Edgar is now the No. 1 Washington booster of Wendell Willkie.

Shouse isn't tooting the Willkie presidential bazooka from the house tops, but privately he is sounding Willkie's praises every place he thinks it will count. He tells friends that the tousle-haired utility tycoon will emerge from the Philadelphia convention as the GOP standard bearer.

The basis of Shouse's confident prediction, as he explained it to a luncheon guest the other day, is this:

Dewey will lead on the first ballot, but that will be his high point. From then on he will fade out of the picture. On the second ballot, Taft will jump to the front. But he, too, won't have the staying power; and on the third ballot Vandenberg will forge to the fore—for a moment. But that will shoot his bolt. He won't have what it takes to make the grade and the leaders will then turn to the one man who has—Willkie.

"On the fourth ballot Willkie will lead and after that it will be a stampede. Once the bandwagon rush starts he will be nominated by acclamation. He is the ablest and most effective candidate in the Republican field and a lot of the leaders are privately for him."

ple for the common welfare. . . . Be polite and patient. Show your credentials willingly." If the little army of information seekers act in the spirit of these admonitions, there need be no trouble or embarrassment.

The citizen who is briefly on the grill may not see the use of all the questions. He should remember that what seems trivial information about one family may be highly significant when it is compiled for all families. His personal privacy is guarded if he wishes it to be. It is guarded in any case from the moment it reaches Washington. No one who has seen the tabulating machines at work in the Bureau of the Census can doubt their impersonality. The individual disappears. He is ground up—figuratively speaking—into a kind of statistical sausage.

One hopes that all over the country today police and patient enumerators will be chatting with a polite and patient public. That is the way things should be.—New York Times.

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—Even a bug can be a victim of propaganda. Seventeen-year locusts, especially.

Puritan ministers started the anti-17-year locust propaganda 300 years ago. What the Massachusetts preachers said about the insect troubadours was character assassination, no less. The cicadas as still haven't lived it down.

It seems the Puritan farmers got scared when the ground practically exploded and billions of insects came forth. They'd never seen anything like that in England.

It was a swell opportunity for the ministers to throw a little fear into the backsliders. So they announced that the insects were locusts. It was another visitation, they preached, like to the plague of locusts that laid waste Egypt in Biblical times.

Locusts Aren't Locusts

The Puritan theologians were nature-faking. Seventeen-year locusts aren't locusts at all. They're periodic cicadas, no relation to the voracious insects of the Bible. But the preachers poured it on, and the bad name stuck.

Now a 17-year locust "plague" is coming again this year, the biggest since 1923. Uncle Sam's entomologists say there's no cause for alarm. Adult cicadas don't eat at all. They do make the woodlots ring when several million get in tune at once, but who'd begrudge a cicada his brief few weeks of song after waiting for his turn for 17 years?

As bugs go, cicadas are high-type citizens. They aren't major pests, and their life cycle is most interesting in bugdom. For instance:

The eggs are polite, and wait their turn to be hatched. The first egg laid hatches first, and so on. A female lays about 500 eggs in bark. It doesn't hurt older trees, and rarely injures younger ones.

The hatched larvae drop to the ground and burrow in for 17 years as Rip Van Winkle. Nobody knows why it takes 'em so long to develop.

Somehow, after 17 years in a solitary burrow, they can tell to the hour when the other pupae are about to emerge. All the males come out one night, the females several nights later.

Music In Their Legs

Their "digging clothes" in which they spent 17 years split down the back when they emerge. The cicada steps out in a milk-white debut dress, complete with gauze wings. They turn darker in an hour. Then they have black bodies, orange legs and big, red eyes.

After the life's one brief round of song—but only for the males. They sing choruses in the top branches of a tree, solos in the lower branches, by rubbing their wings on hollow sound boxes on their bodies.

The bureau of entomology finds that cicadas are homebodies, who stick close to their own localities. A brood emerges somewhere every year, but is restricted to a definite area.

The American broods of cicadas have been numbered. This year's crop is Brood 14. It is the largest and most widely distributed. The 1940 17-year locusts are spread from Cape Cod to Illinois. Brood 10, which is due again in 1953, is next largest.

That's the not-very-scary lowdown on "17-year locusts," who are going to visit us in a "plague" this summer. Too bad they got the wrong kind of publicity, back there in 1634, isn't it?

WHAT ONE KNOWS

Editor, Post-Crescent—In his second letter Mr. Williams displays the same lack of logic apparent in his first. Let me examine his first paragraph as indicative of his mentality.

He says "If the person . . . is really a logician, and not one who has read a few books and gotten his ideas second hand, I'll admit right now I can't debate with him." But Mr. Williams does debate with him, and therefore does not consider his first assumption true. But is not Mr. Williams assuming that one who gets his ideas second hand is inferior to one who does not? A mind containing knowledge manufactured by and through itself would contain little—some philosophers maintain it would contain nothing. Mr. Williams either has such a vacant mind or he has the same kind he accuses me of having, for there is no middle ground. The entire theory of education is based on the fact that the human race is to be taught. Mr. Williams is indeed fortunate that he knows the world exists, that God exists, that morality is natural and not practical. (I mean, of course, that it proceeds from nature and is not an artificial system set up to help humanity along.) Better men than Mr. Williams have devoted their lives to these questions and died in doubt. I wonder if Mr. Williams reached his opinions by thought and study, or if he accepted what he was told in church and school?

Mr. Williams says he has not studied logic and philosophy. Why not begin? On the matter of the world's existence, let him read Berkeley's "A New Theory of Knowledge" and "Three Dialogues." The books are simply and concisely written by a master of English prose. After this simple venture into philosophy I'll wager Mr. Williams will sit down and do a little original thinking of his own.

DON'T FORGET THE INNOCENT VICTIMS

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—From reliable Marinette sources comes the word that Richard P. Murray, recently re-elected mayor there, will again become a candidate for attorney general this year on the Republican ticket, and thereby furnish opposition for Attorney General John E. Martin, who recently renounced his candidacy for re-nomination by the Republicans.

According to the Marinette informant, Mayor Murray feels that one reason for his failure to get the nod in 1938 was that electors generally didn't recognize Richard P. as "Jab," the former Green Bay Packer and Marquette athlete.

RUBIN'S FAILURE

One of the most curious characters in Wisconsin politics is William B. Rubin of Milwaukee, whose voice and name have been prominent in the Democratic party all during the last decade, but whose insatiable ambitions have yet to be attained.

Ironically enough, Rubin is a man who is cordially disliked by large numbers of his own party colleagues, but whose consistently prominent position continues because of his vote-getting ability. There are Democratic party leaders who would willingly dump him, but who are afraid to do so because in a popular test, Rubin would come out ahead.

That his power is waning, however, was attested eloquently during the last week when C. E. Broughton, national committeeman, neatly nipped in the bud Rubin's intended coup within the party. Rubin wanted to become national committeeman, but at the Portage caucus of the Roosevelt-Farley delegates, Broughton got 12 out of 13 votes. Rubin was the dissenter.

The background of Rubin's abortive anti-Broughton revolt is complicated. A year ago he was flirting with the Keller-Curry rebels. He deserted them, with bitter blasts at their alleged motives, however, in time to be welcomed back by the regulars and to be nominated by the Broughton machine for a place on the delegate at large Roosevelt-Farley ballot picked at Wisconsin Rapids several months ago.

Inclined to be vain, Rubin's ambition took on new life when the votes came in, and he found himself leading the Broughton slate. A few days later he was relating in public places in Milwaukee that he was against the reelection of Broughton to the national committee. Then came the boast that he had been offered the post himself, and that he would be willing to take it.

REASON

The secret of his desire to get Broughton's job, according to Democratic politicians who know Rubin well, is explained by the fact that ever since the national Democratic victory in 1932, he has been trying anxiously to get a federal judgeship. Rubin expected confidently to fill Judge Geiger's place last year, but the president disappointed him by nominating F. Ryan Duffy, who had just been involuntarily retired from the senate. Now there is talk about the creation of a new judgeship in the eastern Wisconsin district. Rubin saw here his chance at last, and to fortify his demand for it, he decided to get the job of national committeeman.

Out of the 13 present at the Portage caucus, however, 12 delegates voted for Broughton. To a man with Rubin's quota of self-esteem, it must have been a bitter pill.

ELIMINATING POISON

The Lambert method of treating chronic alcoholism (dipsomania), which I recommend and any physician anywhere can successfully administer if the patient (1) clearly recognizes that he or she is abnormal and incapable of "taking it or letting it alone" and (2) can afford to have the constant attendance of a qualified nurse or attendant and the care of the physician either at home or in a hospital or other institution for three weeks, was given to the medical profession in 1909. I have no information concerning the details of the treatment, and anyway it is far beyond the comprehension or management of a layman. But upon request of a medical practitioner I am glad to refer the doctor to Lambert's original reports which give all the information a physician needs to administer the treatment. That is, I'll give the doctor the reference if he provides a stamped envelope bearing his address. I cannot send the information to a layman to hand to a doctor. I mean I will not. So that's that.

The Lambert method, like many other methods of treating chronic alcoholism or the drink habit, includes rather vigorous catharsis in the early stages. Idea of the physician, I suppose, is to increase or hasten excretion or elimination of alcohol from the system.

I have never had an opportunity to experiment with the Lambert treatment minus the physic. But, judging from my experience in treating alcohol "colds" with preliminary saline laxation or catharsis and in later years without the physic, I believe the Lambert treatment would be quite as effective without catharsis as it is with catharsis.

As a matter of scientific fact all of the alcohol a heavy drinker can possibly consume is burned in the body or excreted within a few hours, not more than ten hours after the last drink or dose is taken.

It is the same with tobacco or nicotine, so far as can be scientifically determined—all the nicotine or tobacco smoke is excreted from the body within a few hours after the last chew or smoke is taken.

So why revert to the crude principles of medieval medicine when treating a patient for the ill effects of alcohol or tobacco?

The notion of "eliminating alcohol or tobacco or nicotine from the system" is not a medical notion but just an old folklore belief. Anyway, very little alcohol is excreted through the bowel—most of it is excreted through the lungs, in expired air. It would be more effective to give the patient a few minutes of carboxygen inhalations every hour or two to hasten excretion of the alcohol—carboxygen being a mixture of about 7 parts carbon dioxide with 93 parts oxygen, the best known stimulant to breathing.

How long the damage done by the alcohol will last is quite a different question.

Hull Is Popular Choice for Candidacy if Roosevelt Does Not Run, Gallup Poll Shows

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion
Princeton, N. J. — If President Roosevelt does not run for a third term, Secretary of State Cordell Hull is the leading popular choice for president among the rank and file of Democratic voters in a poll by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

In today's survey a little less than half (45 per cent) of the voters polled said they were undecided as to whom they would choose if Roosevelt does not run—a fact which indicates that sentiment is far from crystallized when Roosevelt is eliminated.

Other studies have shown that President Roosevelt is still the most popular man in the Democratic party and that an overwhelming majority of the party's voters want to see him elected again. But this does not mean that Roosevelt is necessarily the strongest vote-getter in the party.

In fact, Institute researches have shown that Secretary Hull's vote getting ability may actually be greater than Roosevelt's at the present time because (1) Hull does not have to overcome any third term prejudice, and (2) he wins a greater number of the voters who supported Landon in 1936 than does Roosevelt.

In addition to the sharp gain in Hull's popularity since February, today's study shows an increase for James A. Farley, who rises from

Dr. Gallup increased sharply in recent months, putting him ahead of John N. Garner as a popular presidential choice. Last February and again today the Institute asked a cross-section of Democratic voters throughout the country:

"If Roosevelt is not a candidate, whom would you like to see elected president this year?"

Those expressing a preference in the two surveys voted as follows:

8 per cent to 16 per cent. Part of this rise is undoubtedly due to the extensive tour of the West and Southwest which he made earlier this spring.

Paul V. McNutt's popularity among Democrats dropped a little in the period since February, although the silver-haired Indianan is still among the top-rankers. Senator Wheeler of Montana held his ground.

Other prominent Democratic leaders mentioned by voters in today's survey include: Governor Lloyd Stark of Missouri, Secretary Harold L. Ickes, Secretary Henry A. Wallace, Senator Champ Clark, Justice Lewis O. Douglas, Senator Harry A. Byrd, Secretary Harry Hopkins, Alfred E. Smith, and Jesse Jones.

Kimberly-Clark Bridge at Neenah Open for Traffic

Erection of Steel Skeleton For New Plant Near Completion

Neenah — The Kimberly-Clark corporation's $20,000 bridge across the Fox river canal from the Kimberly-Clark property to N. Church street has been completed, and the span today was opened to traffic.

The concrete bridge, constructed by the Fluor Bros. Construction company, Oshkosh, is 100 feet long and 24 feet wide with 5-foot side-walks on each side.

The 400-foot retaining wall along the north bank of the canal also has been completed. The retaining wall, which has been built from 20 to 60 feet from the shore line, provides more space for parking on Kimberly-Clark property.

Construction of the large mill by the corporation is well under way, and work on the erection of the steel framework for the plant, which will house machinery for the manufacture of coarse wadding an insulation, is nearing completion. The new machine room building is being constructed adjacent to the present Badger-Globe unit.

The structure, which will be built of reinforced concrete and steel, will be 76 by 240 feet.

Erection of the large mill and construction of the bridge is part of a substantial program of modernization underway by the Kimberly-Clark corporation at Neenah, Kimberly, Niagara, Wis. and Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Pastor Urges Courage to Work For Better Society in Talk At Mother, Daughter Banquet

Neenah — "Gold is where you find it, not in a literal pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, but in those things, far more important, which aid us to develop a life that enables us to be the best possible individuals for the creation of the best possible society," the Rev. Gerald C. Churchill, Menasha, told more than 130 mothers and daughters at the Twin City Y.W.C.A. Girl Reserve banquet in the fellowship hall of the First Methodist church Tuesday evening.

Pointing out that while there is gold in a strong, healthy body which mothers know is vitally important, the Rev. Mr. Churchill stated that there is gold to be found also in the courage to overcome physical handicaps in the development of the best possible individual. More important too than material gold is development of the mind, he said.

There is gold in personality development too, said the speaker, no matter what an individual is or what he may be if he has the courage of the "upward reach" although it may be more pleasant, more convenient and easier to be in the rut. Emotional pose as well as spiritual life offer their gold also but the choice is the individual's, the Rev. Mr. Churchill said.

"Mothers realize these aspects of a child's personality, they are molding living clay, but unless a mother strives to live up to the high and best of which she is capable, she cannot expect her daughter to become the best individual.

"Are we using the gold at our disposal, are we availing ourselves of the opportunities to work toward success, are we serving our community, our nation and the world by making use of that which is offered? We have to go out and get it, life doesn't work on a design where we obtain something for nothing, if we are to succeed, we must persevere."

Keep Out of War

The choicest gold of all, the speaker contended, is concerted action by all mothers to prevent American men and boys being sent outside this country into a diabolical thing called a war.

"We must believe in a better life, we must work toward it and here in the paths of every day . . . to build eternity in time."

The rainbow was used as the theme of the Girl Reserve banquet and Miss Betty DuSharna, Menasha, toastmaster, opened the program with a short talk.

Miss Mary Tembels presented a trombone solo, accompanied at the piano by Shirley Thompson. Miss Patricia Doll, Doris Kuehbecker, Eunice Niles and Marjorie Meyer played a clarinet quartet selection.

The welcome to the mothers was given by Miss Betty Haidt and Mrs. H. O. Griffith responded. Miss Hazel Mollon sang "Mother MacCreo" and for an encore, "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life." Miss Katherine Grunski accompanied her at the piano.

Group singing was led by Mrs. R. O. Kuchmeister, chairman of the camp committee of the "Y," who also discussed the camp plans for August. Miss Florence Warner, general secretary of the "Y," played the piano accompaniment for the assembly singing.

Closing the program was the Girl Reserve ring ceremonial conducted by Miss Beulah Shum, Girl Reserve secretary. Miss Betty Nelson presented the 21 girls who received rings in the candle-lighting ceremony.

Those who received rings were Oral Jane Jenkins, Florence Klug, Marcella Klug, Carol Page, Dorothy Pomeroy, Ruth Sewall and Luella Wendt, Menasha; Catherine Block, Elpha Brooks, Polly Draheim, Betty Hardt, Marion Kemps, Gertrude Krautkramer, Doris and Virginia Kuehbecker, Emily Kuether, Margaret Olson, Geraldine Rusch, Janet Stanton, Shirley Thompson and Helen Vanderwalke.

Trenching Concerns May Have to Supply Liability Insurance

Neenah — The committee on public improvements at a meeting last night at the city hall voted to recommend to the council that private concerns doing trenching work on public streets be required to furnish a $10,000 to $20,000 public liability insurance policy besides the $250 bond which they already are required to furnish.

The proposed regulation mainly will affect plumbers and drain layers. It was pointed out that in case of an accident caused by the carelessness of a firm doing the trenching, the present $250 bond would not be sufficient to cover liabilities.

The committee approved assessments for installation of curbs and gutters on Van and Grove streets at a cost of 60 cents a foot and water mains on Cedar street at 50 cents a foot.

Twin City Sports Club Hears Chief Of State Wardens

Group Votes to Support Jack Seeber as Delegate To State Meeting

Neenah — "The biggest game law violators, or 'pirates' are individuals who take turfs and fish and those who peddle them, with the former the worst offender, Bernard Devine, chief warden of the Wisconsin conservation department, charged in a talk at a meeting of the Twin City Rod and Gun club last night at Neenah city hall auditorium.

He told all persons arrested for some illegal act in law or hunting aren't pirates and law enforcement is application of good common sense. The warden said that the local club was free from game pirates as not a single arrest has been made among its members.

The warden said there should be at least 100 wardens in the state to do patrol work, lack of funds make this impossible.

Back Delegate

During the business meeting, the club voted to support Jack Seeber as one of three delegates from Winnebago county to the state game meeting at Madison in July. The county meeting will be held at the Oshkosh courthouse June 4.

The pheasant committee reported that 600 eggs will be received soon, 300 of which will be distributed in the Menasha area and the rest in the Neenah area. Officers will be elected at the next meeting at Elks hall, Menasha. Members of the nominating committee are Emil Nemitz, Lee Larson and S. E. Dickenson.

Harold Smith, Menasha, was named chairman of a committee to choose a site for a range for boys of Neenah and Menasha where they can learn to shoot firearms and have target practice. The club approved a plan to post a $25 reward for illegal netting convictions in the Lake Winnebago and Little Lake Butte des Morts areas.

Discuss Pollution

Pollution of water by paper mills was discussed and it was decided the club should request boards of health to insist that these mills be connected with the sewerage disposal plant. Fishways on dams and a proposal by Alderman John Heigl, Neenah relative to placing a spillway south of the slough bridge to raise the water in the slough also were discussed.

A committee was appointed to arrange the annual club picnic in June.

Pegler Isn't Worried About Hurting Italians' Feelings

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York — I get tired of the proposition advanced by a good many half-Americanized immigrants from Italy, and by some American-born progeny of immigrants, that it is absolutely jake, or, anyway, a matter of no importance, that the Italian government, through its press constantly reviles and abuses American people, but that it is wrong to take any notice of this nasty, persistent hostility because the Italian people are so nice.

I dispose of that objection by saying, nice or not, to hell with the Italian people in any conflict between the American people as such and the Italians as such.

This conflict has been going on for a long time in a one-sided way. That is to say, the press operated by the rotten conspiracy which passes for a government in Italy has been slashing away at the Americans, their civilization, their form of government and everything which they cherish or are touchy about for years. The Italian press never speaks out of turn, being absolutely controlled by the band of cut-throats, thieves, gangsters and terrorists who constitute the fascist party and government, and its expressions must be regarded as the true sentiments of the Italian nation toward this country.

Those sentiments are hostile, but the American government and the press, on the whole, have ignored the situation because, in a fine, technical way, it can be held that the official communications between the two governments are all that count and because, frankly, the Americans never have cared very much whether the Italians liked them or not.

But, practically, Italy is unfriendly to the United States, and, moreover, is not only a member of the big team which has undertaken to exterminate the American kind of civilization but the home of the nationalistic brand of bolshevism, known also as fascism and nazism.

It seems to be forgotten that it was Mussolini, a political bun-doubtcrasser and back-stabber, who started all this trouble by pulling away from his old communist friends after they had staked him to board, room and a course of shots for the cure of the malady, which is euphemistically known as the dog-bite or neopolitain measles, and creating a terror of his own in Italy on the general lines of the Russian atrocity.

Inspired Another One to Go and Do Likewise

He slit the throats of his old friends, rallied all the crooks in Italy to his side, tortured and robbed all the Italians who possessed the faintest trace of decency and character and murdered many of them, and, by his success, inspired that other monster, then regarded as a harmless nut in a greasy raincoat, to go and do likewise on a greater and more ghastly scale.

The people of the United States owe no consideration at all to the people of Italy, however nice the Italians may be, and there are a number of half-Americanized brigands operating under the free press privilege of this patient republic whose editorial policies should be studied and given wide publicity by the patriotic American-language press, so that the American people may know what goes on.

Far be it from me to propose that editorial expression should be limited any more narrowly than it is by existing laws, but I know the American people would be surprised to learn what goes on under cover of a foreign language, and would discover in their midst anti-Americans whom they never before suspected. The favorite method of the anti-American publisher is to tell Americans of Italian blood that an attack on the Italian people is an attack on them, but they never remind the same public that an attack on the American people in the Italian press also is an attack on them.

Code Is Attacked In Defense Brief

Attorney for Menasha Firm Says Law Is Unconstitutional
(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau)
Oshkosh — The defense brief of Frank Shemanski, operator of the Menasha Cleaners and Dyers, in the suit brought by the state of Wisconsin, a trade practice division to test the validity of the cleaning and dyeing code was filed yesterday with Clerk of Court Edward C. Abel.
The brief was requested by Circuit Judge Henry P. Hughes. The state is to file a brief within 10 days and the defense will be given a rebuttal to the state's arguments. Judge Hughes will decide the validity of the code on the basis of these briefs.
Shemanski's attorney, in his brief, attacked the code as violating the fourteenth amendment of the federal constitution and section 1, article 1 of the state constitution which declares that "all men are born equally free and independent and have certain inherent rights; among these rights are life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness." The code is in contradiction with that section, the defense attorney avers.
The code is also claimed to be unconstitutional because it restricts its operation to only localities with a certain population and thus discriminates against these cities in favor of smaller communities.
The defense counsel also claims that the cleaners and dyers code is unfair because a cleaning and dyeing concern operating in the town of Menasha could take the business away from the Appleton and Menasha companies by underselling them, since it would not be required under the law to comply with the code.
Also named as defendants in the test case are the Richmond Cleaning and Dyeing company of Oshkosh and the Groth Cleaners and Dyers of Oshkosh.

"Final contract: six spades by North, doubled by East. Opening lead, singleton king of diamonds by East."

"Notice that the hand is a 'Corri-gan'. Because the three losing clubs in the South hand must be trumped out, the hand must be played backward, using South's trumps to take care of East."

"Notice, also, that unless one of North's diamond honors is dropped on South's ace at the first trick, good defense will defeat the contract."

"Declarer wins the first trick with dummy's ace of diamonds, dropping the queen or jack from the closed hand. A club must be led immediately and trumped again in the closed hand. Dummy is re-entered with a small trump to the queen, and another club is trumped high. Dummy again is entered by leading a low trump. On this lead the established finesse is taken against East's nine spot."

"This third club now is led and trumped with North's last spade. Next the jack of diamonds is led, and if East stays off, is followed by the small diamond. East must trump one of these, otherwise seven will be made. Whatever East leads after trumping the diamond declarer takes the rest."

"Notice the situation if declarer fails to unblock the diamonds at the first trick. East then has only to trump declarer's diamond at trick seven, throw him in again with a heart, and the contract cannot be made."

P. R. Illinois.
I am particularly fond of "dummy reversal" hands, but I am afraid that this is not a particularly happy example. Far from North's having to ruff dummy's three clubs and later to use dummy's trumps to pick up East's, declarer cannot only make his contract but an extra trick by playing in a perfectly straightforward manner."

The diamond king is taken by the ace and now it is true that North must drop one of his blocking honors. But his second play should be a heart to the ace and a heart ruff with the spade four. The lead of the spade queen discloses the trump situation. Now the spade eight is led to the ten and a second heart is ruffed with dummy's last trump, the jack. Now declarer returns to his own hand by ruffing a club, the first time he has shortened himself in trumps. East's remaining trumps are picked up by the ace and king, and declarer wins the last four tricks by cashing the diamond queen and leading the diamond three to the nine spot."

It will be observed that there is no risk involved in this method of play and that it not only insures the contract, but an extra trick as well.

THE HOME GARDENER
by EDWIN H. PERKINS

Warm nights, heavy dews and insect enemies are companions. The combination works havoc on the gardener's budding efforts unless he does something to protect himself. Dusts applied lightly and regularly are a positive requirement. So is a duster. However, additional expense for this or that implement is likely to take some of the fun out of gardening. Two simple plans to avoid the expense of a duster are offered.

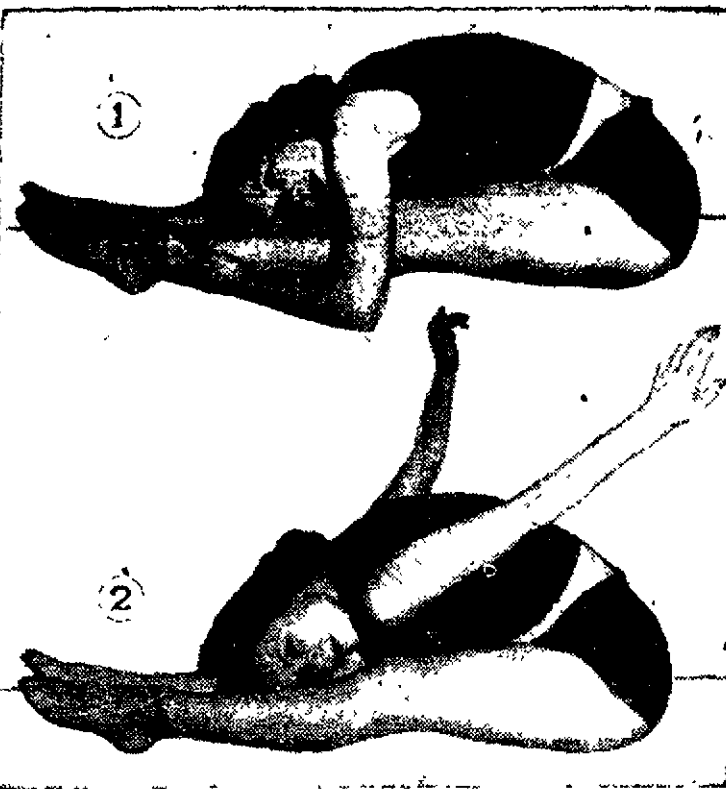

A lightweight muslin bag, fitted with a drawstring and filled with an accepted dust, can be shaken over the plants to be coated. Or, a heavier coat is applied when the fungicidal material is dusted from a flour sifter such as is used for flouring pastry boards. Flour sifters are obtainable wherever kitchen supplies are sold. By carefully lifting and turning the branches when dusting, it is possible to coat the under as well as top side of leaves.

Copper-lime dust can be used whenever the messier lime-sulphur spray is indicated. Make the application early in the morning or late at night when the dew can be counted on to do the spreading.

Finely ground dusting sulphur is also effective wherever the conditions warrant the use of a sulphur

Beauty and You

—by PATRICIA LINDSAY—

Pose one of Spine Stretcher: ELEANOR POWELL raises herself from a prone floor position and touches her legs with her head by pulling on her ankles.

Pose two: When the body becomes pliable, this movement can be done without the aid of the hands on the ankles. Miss Powell goes through the routine daily.

While speaking with Eleanor POWELL, who dances so beautifully on the screen and stage, we got to talk about strained muscles. She is perhaps the most active feminine dancer of today yet she retains a soft figure quite free of knotted muscles. She claims this is due to her daily routine of stretching exercises which keeps her body limber for her dancing.

Miss Powell warns women and girls who have not exercised much, to avoid straining their bodies from too violent exercising. She cited several cases where girls have suffered from a too strenuous reducing schedule. They were indifferent to exercise for years and then suddenly decided to bump off the extra pounds. Their muscles were tense, and could not stand the sudden strain and rebelled by becoming extremely tender to any stretching. Thus the schedules were interrupted and a few of them walked around with limps for several days!

If you are one who wishes to exercise for beauty, and if you have not limbered recently, you must do so before adopting any exercise schedule.

Lie on the floor on your back. Raise the upper part of your body to a sitting position without any assistance and bend forward to grasp your ankles with your hands. Then pull down your head until it touches the calves of your legs as illustrated by Eleanor Powell in the top pose. This limbers your spine and it will be difficult to do quickly and easily at first. But keep practicing and when you have mastered it take the next step.

Lie on your back on the floor, as you did in the first movement, and raise your body without any assistance and touch your head to your legs WITHOUT GRASPING YOUR ANKLES. Swing your arms up in back of your body as your head lowers. If you can do this with ease, as does Eleanor in the second pose, your spine and leg muscles are limber enough to start an exercise schedule. Do not bend your knees in either exercise.

You will find that you are pretty stiff and it might take ten days or two weeks of practice to master both of these movements.

Those of you who have been complaining of spine aches could have no better movements to practice than these two. But DO NOT spray and should be applied under the same conditions recommended for copper-lime dust. Kolodust is a sulphur dust with a high killing power and a superior adhesion quality. For those who prefer them, dusts which are stained green are available. Nearly all seedsmen sell three per cent nicotine dust. This is especially effective against aphides and leaf hoppers.

When is a Girl a "Young Lady"?
Dear Mrs. Post. Will you please tell me when a girl is old enough to be referred to as a "young lady." Answer: It used to be when she put her hair up—at about sixteen.

Always in Trouble
Father laughed, "You have to show Jake. He isn't going to take anybody's say so, are you, Jake?"
"You bet not," said Jake.

But smart as Jacob was he was constantly in trouble. When his playmate told him not to stand on the cellar door because it was broken and the carpenter was coming to fix it, he didn't believe it and fell into the cellar. Nobody thanked him for that.

When the teacher told him that he would have to study his words or he would be left back, he didn't believe her. He couldn't be left back. But his mother thought that perhaps he might and tried to teach him a little at home, without success. So he was left back.

Severe Steps Necessary
The climax came when, on his way home from school, he stopped to watch the men building the new postoffice. He climbed under the guard rail and was ordered back. He wouldn't go. He clambered up a heap of sand in spite of the foreman's yells, and slid swiftly into the pit where the men were digging.

"It's not his fault that he isn't here today it is when she cuts it off!"

A Hostess Alone
Dear Mrs. Post: Whom does a woman living alone seat at the opposite end of the table when she has people in to dinner?

Answer: If a member of her family is present, he is seated opposite her. Otherwise, she chooses the man whom she knows best. If she knows no one better than the others, then it doesn't matter which man happens to be given this place.

Mrs. Post, is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Buffet Dinners, Lunches and Suppers." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of this paper, P. O. End of Personal Freedom Is Greatest Marital Drawback

BY DOROTHY DIX

The thing that keeps men from popping the question, that causes girls to pause and weigh the relative merits of a wedding ring and shackles, and that sends more people to the divorce courts than anything else, is the fact that marriage almost invariably means the end of all personal freedom. Above the door of virtually every home might be carved the inscription: ABANDON HOPE OF LIBERTY ALL YE WHO ENTER HERE. For the price of marriage is bondage and few there be who enter it who are ever again independent human beings, able to live their own lives. They are committed to a jail, which is still a jail, no matter how much its walls are soft-padded with love, and in which they are regimented and have all their habits and ways and tastes interfered with, and against this they inwardly rage, no matter how much they are assured it is for their own good. It is this tyranny that turns so many marriages into failures and wrecks so many homes. For freedom is the breath of life to us. It is the one thing which we will fight for and die for and without which our souls perish and everything else in the world is dust and ashes in our teeth. And it is when marriage deprives us of this that we find it unendurable. It is when the tie that binds a husband and wife together becomes the ball and chain of prisoners that they break it at any cost.

Of course, when men and women marry they are never free in the sense that bachelors and spinsters are. They have assumed responsibilities and obligations that the single do not have.

The married man's money must go to pay the grocery bill instead of buying orchids for a platinum blonde. The married woman must cook her husband's dinner instead of doing the rumba at a tea dance. Neither are free to philander around with flirtatious boys and girls.

Most husbands and wives willingly accept these conditions of marriage. They have no desire whatever to go on drunken orgies or tread the primrose path. They do not resent doing the work and making the sacrifices that marriage demands.

But what gets upon their nerves is being so completely enslaved that they have not a single shred of personal liberty left, and what further gets them is being treated like moron children who haven't enough intelligence to even know when they are hot or cold, or hungry or replete with food.

Why so many husbands and wives think that there is something in the marriage ceremony that makes them the family dictators is one of the mysteries of the holy estate that nobody has ever solved. They just do.

We all know husbands who dominate their wives so completely that they do not have as much liberty as a fly in a rap. They almost have to ask their husband's permission to breathe. Their husbands pick out their clothes for them, dole out their carfare to them and make them account for every cent of the grocery money.

They cannot join a club or go to a party or have any member of their family visit them without first getting the permission of the Most High.

Drastic Measures May be Necessary for Smart Aleck

BY ANGELO PATRI

Son Jacob was very smart. He said so himself, and his father passed the word along to all who would listen, and to some who would not, including Mother. Mother did not think Jacob so smart when he questioned everything she told him to do, or not to do.

"Who says I'll get hurt? How could I get hurt? But I wouldn't get in front of a car. Think I'm a fool to get run over?" This when his mother brought him into the house because she saw him running out into the highway to get his ball, something that she had emphatically taught him he was never to do.

"Jacob, if I were you I wouldn't eat any more nuts before your dinner." "Why not? Pooh, I could eat a whole dishful. That wouldn't stop me from eating my dinner. No, no, give me them. I'm hungry. You mean thing. Just because you can't eat nuts you don't want me to. I am not too fat. They don't make me fat. I don't care, I'm hungry."

At table mother spoke again. "Only one serving of potatoes and only one serving of meat. Eat your other vegetables."

"Why? Well, I don't believe it. I don't believe they do me good and I'm not too fat. I like to be fat. Pooh, Dr. Carl doesn't know ME. I can eat what I want."

dead," said the foreman wrathfully, as he delivered him at his door.

"He will have to stay in bed for a couple of days until that cut heals," said the doctor, "otherwise he is all right. But he ought to stay out of such places."

"Pooh," said Jacob. "That didn't hurt me."

"No," said mother. "But it hurt me, and when you are better you are going to be sent to a boarding school where nobody will tell you how smart it is to be foolish."

It happened then. She slipped. She gave out a hoarse scream which stopped abruptly, muffled by the rush of muddy waters.

Down, down, she went, then up, and when she reached the surface, footstools were pounding down the path from the house. Into the pen came Allen Bartlett; a handsome immaculate Allen, in top hat, white tie and tails.

Top hat and tails were thrown to the ground and Allen knelt on the edge of the pool and held a succoring hand to Tomi.

Gratefully she accepted it; then she looked up.

Bartlett's chin was steady; his mouth was grim. Ah, but his eyes—they danced like the waters of the bay at sunrise. And the froth of his white dress shirt quivered convulsively. Allen Bartlett was on the verge of more than the pool; he was on the verge of hysterical laughter.

Tomi was satisfied with his nearness to the pool. She thought of Lily's party. She thought of the reason for Lily's party. It was too much. She gave the rescuing hand a quick forceful jerk—and there were three in the frog pond.

Or were there?

Allen Bartlett was down for a long time and when he came up he looked as though he had spent the time gathering tulips. A wreath of them stood upright on his head. Water hyacinths draped their fuzzy, film-clogged roots over his shoulders. One eye was black with mud, the other was black with anger.

"Shut Up!" He made a leap in her direction, caught his foot in a lily root, and went down again. Tomi scrambled up the edge of the pond and collapsed on the edge to howl with laughter. Never had

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

If you wish to conduct an interesting meeting employ the "anecdotal method" in your speaking and the "multiple choice" plan in your discussion period. Type or mimeograph a page of such questions and pass them around to the members of the audience. People will cooperate in a multiple choice quiz when they will sit, tongue-tied, after being asked a vague question. Paste this Case Record in your scrapbook. It will be worth hundreds of dollars to you in the years to come.

CASE Q-163: Charley W., aged 19, is president of the young people's society in his church.

"It is no easy job either," he stated positively. We find it difficult to procure young people to lead the meeting.

"They get cold feet and protest that they are afraid to speak in public."

Besides, they often conduct very dry and uninteresting discussions.

"If the minister weren't present to help out, we'd be sunk. He is always our life saver, though."

"Besides, our crowd gets so concerned with making dates; that it doesn't take the meeting seriously. Instead of trying to welcome strangers and assuming some responsibility for the programs, the majority just look about, trying to find a date, and they form little cliques, ignoring the strangers who stand around timidly after meeting."

"Dr. Crane, do you think it is worth while trying to hold our meetings? Five or six of us have to share all the work and worry."

DIAGNOSIS:
It certainly is worth while to hold these Sunday evening meetings not only for the moral training which results, but also because of the admirable practical experience which the young people receive.

In our evening university courses in public speaking, the students pay $25 tuition for a class which meets only once per week for 17 weeks. It costs each student $1.50 per week, therefore, and he doesn't average more than a 3-minute talk per week. A fellow or girl who leads a religious meeting usually speaks and directs discussion for at least 20 minutes. The experience would cost him $10 in our university public speaking classes.

There is no shortcut to public speaking ability. You must get up before at least 100 audiences before you can be considered out of the amateur class.

Learn To Be A Speaker
Last week I told you that inability to use words skillfully, is a cause of divorce, as well as business and professional bankruptcy. The use of words extends beyond a sales interview or a proposal of marriage to your sweetheart.

It involves speaking in public. Take advantage of every such golden opportunity, therefore, and don't worry because your knees beat together like castanets, your hands tremble, your voice quakes, and cold sweat stands out on your brow.

You cannot become a good speaker in any other way. That is the usual initiation for all of us when we start on the road to public platform proficiency.

An intelligent young person ought to jump at the chance to lead the young people's meeting or teach a Sunday school class. Don't be a coward and shun opportunity! Resolutely go ahead. Act the way you'd like to be and ultimately you'll be the way you act!

How To Interest An Audience
Use the "anecdotal method" in your speeches, linking together a number of appropriate and relevant stories or episodes. People like narration but not dry exposition or preachy lecturing.

If you want a group to enter into discussion, don't ask them a blank question, such as, "Does anybody want to discuss the war question?"

That's too vague. It may also catch many people wool gathering. So be specific and give them a "multiple choice" question, for they'll more eagerly take action on the latter. "Should Christians be COMPLETE PACIFISTS... ENTER A DEFENSIVE WAR?"

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.)

she seen anything as satisfyingly funny!

Abe and Bartlett rescued each other. Through a sliding process of mutual support they reached shore. Old Abe shaking his head mournfully at Tomi.

"Now you done it," he accused. "Lost your farm. Won't get another frog out of here."

Tomi's laughter stopped. "Why not?" she demanded.

"Bad enough us bein' in the pond, but Allen was born in November. Frogs don't like November folk. Frogs is fuzzy!"

Tomi faced defeat and loved it. If she had to lose the farm, she was losing it with a laugh.

"Stop that grin!"
Tomi, removing her sodden boots, looked up at the roar of anger.

"Oh, go look in a mirror," she giggled.

"Shut up!" Bartlett stood over her. But Tomi jumped up and her stockinged feet went flying out of the pen and towards the house. "Try to make me," she called oack over her shoulder.

He did. He caught up with her, wheeled her around with a crushing grip of her shoulders, then shook her until she was dizzy.

"I've listened to you wisecrack until I'm tired of it. Now you're going to listen."

"To your wisecracks?" She offered.

"I'm sick of you, understand? I'm going to tell you just what I think of you, and when I get through I want you to go in and get on your knees before Timothy Toland's portrait. I thought old Timothy was a smart man, until I met you."

"He was a sick man when he went to Chicago to find out whether there was a Toland fit to inherit his money. He fell for you. God knows why. He admitted you were as ornery as the devil. He said you'd had to be to hold your own with the other Tolands and you'd been at it so long it was a habit."

"Here's where he made his mistake. He said you had business ability, and given a chance to live with human beings instead of Tolands, you'd become human."

"He didn't. He left you the money outright. He knew you. Great-aunt Hannah would have it worked away from you before the ink was dry on your signature, so he shopped around until he found something he thought a girl like you could handle, this frog farm."

"He wasn't content with that. He drew up his will in such a way that if you failed, you couldn't lose too much. Each season you'd have a sporting chance. If you failed, I could convert the farm into something which would bring you a good living. Shut up until I get through!"

But Tomi wouldn't shut up, she roared louder than Allen.

"Why didn't he tell me that? Why didn't he leave words?"

"He's ornery as you!"

"I told you in the beginning," Bartlett answered. "He knew you'd try to pull something fast to be different. He had to challenge you. He had to force you to fight and prove your right to the farm to make you appreciate it."

"He told me how to handle you. He said I was to be as damned or ornery as you were. He failed to tell me it couldn't be done."

"When I think of what I've put up with from you, it's a wonder I

SPORTS STYLE

BY ANNE ADAMS

There's a fresh, clean-cut, American-girl spirit about Pattern 4463! It's an Anne Adams dress, which explains its unusual verve and originality. That button-up-the-back idea is ingeniously young combined with the bow of the sash which comes from the front panel or winds all around. There are shoulder-to-shoulder yokes at both front and back, made on a striking cross-grain. You might have the yokes and sleeves in sprightly contrast.

Notice the smart front panel and the new touch of buttons that march down either side to below the waist. Omit the sleeves and you'll have a real sportswear!

Pattern 4463 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric.

don't murder you right here with my bare hands.

"That first night you spent here, because you wouldn't go to a hotel, I darned near took pneumonia sleeping on that fligid front porch so I'd be handy if you were frightened," he disparaged. "You haven't enough human blood in your body to be afraid."

"Then I took on your family in the courts and held your inheritance for you by lying, pretending I thought you were a good business woman. Next I took them on in another way and found they were made of better stuff than you. They could be made into human beings."

Tomi knew she had run the gamut of all emotions as Allan talked. She believed him. One couldn't live with Great Uncle Timothy's portrait without believing only good of the old fellow. And each reprisal fell into place like bits of a jigsaw puzzle.

"As for Pierre," continued Bartlett, "what I put up with there no one will ever know. Believing he was after your money; that he'd planned to meet and marry you because you had a frog farm he wanted. Having to stand by helpless and watch you make a fool of yourself."

"W—why didn't you t—tell me?" Tomi stammered.

"Tell you," roared Allen. "Would you have believed me?" Oh, forget it, it's over. But what Timothy Toland saw in you that was worth a frog farm I can't see. Look at you, look at the way you've come around lately, that hair cut, those shirts and boots and breeches!"

Tomi looked at the boots, dejected looking things tipsily edging the pool, then looked at Allen. "You're not a vision of sartorial elegance yourself, Mr. Bartlett," she reminded him, "especially for a man who's about to be displaced to a mob as an altar trophy."

"A what?" he bellowed, "an altar?"

And then Allen Barteli was gone and where he'd stood there was nothing but a puddle of water, rimmed with tulles.

Tomi looked at the spot, then turned to watch the long figure

Double Funeral For Slain Pair Conducted Today

County Authorities Still Seeking Unknown Killer of Mother, Son

Double funeral services were held this morning at the St. Nicholas church, Freedom, for Mrs. Annie Van Camp, 77 and her son William, 31, route 1, Kaukauna, who were murdered in cold-blood at their farm home Saturday night by an unknown killer. Burial was in the parish cemetery.

County authorities today announced no new developments in the case, and Raymond P. Dohr, district attorney, said that the inquest probably will be held Friday afternoon at Freedom.

Mrs. Van Camp and her son lived alone at the farm and their bodies were discovered by a neighbor early Sunday morning. Both had been shot in the face at close range with shotgun charges.

Robbery may have been the motive for the killings, as an empty money bag was found in the home. Authorities today said they learned that the Van Camps used cash for most of their transactions and that sums up to $200 to $300 were at times kept at the home. The wardrobe closet in which the money sack was kept was open and the money sack was found on the bedroom dresser.

Skies Will Clear And Mercury Rise Thursday, Report

Lightning Hits Chimney On Lawrence Campus; 50 Degrees Today

Rain darkened skies contrasted with fresh green vegetation today as spring showers continued in Appleton and vicinity, pushing the thermometer down 20 degrees from the seasonal normal.

At the thermometer standing at 50 degrees early this afternoon in Appleton, the weatherman forecast continued cloudiness tonight, gradually clearing skies and rising temperatures tomorrow.

Yesterday's maximum of 72 was recorded at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the Wisconsin Michigan Power company reported. The thermometer began dropping last evening and hit a 24-hour low of 46 at 5 o'clock this morning.

A bolt of lightning struck the top of the heating plant chimney on the Lawrence college campus about 3:30 yesterday afternoon, making a loud detonation and scattering chunks of concrete about the base of the structure. Falling concrete narrowly missed a couple of workmen. The chimney is about 105 feet high.

A weather disturbance slowly creeping eastward brought rains today to the Great Lakes region, and the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, the Associated Press reported.

The low-pressure area moved from southern Minnesota yesterday to southern Wisconsin today.

Allies Gain Power in Air While Rival Forces Prepare for Decisive Battle

BY DREW MIDDLETON

With the British Expeditionary Force in Belgium—(The full power of the German armies swept southwest today toward the tiny triangle of Belgium where the allies were massed to make their last stand in the Low countries after the collapse of Dutch resistance.

The biggest battle of the war, and perhaps its most decisive, appeared imminent. The Nazi armies, screened by armored cars and light divisions and accompanied by thousands of parachute troops, sped toward the British and French battle positions.

The situation probably was as grave as that of 1914, for the Germans in five days had forced the Dutch to their knees, overrun large sections of Belgium and opened the way to the vital channel ports from which their strategy may dictate the long-awaited blow to England.

Gain Air Power

The situation seemed lightened by only one factor—the rise to power of the allied air arm, which has been forcing the Germans to a standstill.

It was admittedly too early to gauge the results of yesterday's air battle, but Royal Air Force pilots and gunners felt today that both their fighters and bombers came off best in the battle which brought down almost a dozen German bombers, spread high explosives on German troop concentrations, bridges, depots and railroads far into the third reich's hitherto inviolable territory.

But their faces were traced with lines of anxiety.

The German army-unchecked after eight months of war—might still be in Berlin instead of a few short miles away. Privates idled, smoking cigars in the sunshine by the side of powerful tanks and field guns. Others ate off tables pulled from the barracks.

bravely fought against an overwhelming enemy. But they were not equal to modern weapons.

"Not only the soldiers but even the civil population has suffered enormously. Rotterdam was bombed and destroyed. Utrecht had the same fate. Thus we were compelled to lay down our arms."

"Our towns have been bombarded, our women and children have been bombed, and the German army force took a toll of thousands of victims. Military and non-military objectives were bombed."

"I, the commander-in-chief, gave the order to cease firing in order to spare further bloodshed and complete destruction of the country. At least a small part of our beautiful country will be saved. You can understand how hard it was for me to decide as I did."

From London Queen Wilhelmina sent a proclamation that "the Netherlands will one day, with the help of God, re-win its whole European territory."

Girls Will Edit Annual of Senior School Next Year

The staff personnel will be completed next fall.

Stores in Appleton will close at 5 o'clock each afternoon except Saturdays during June, July and August, according to Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

The decision was made this morning at a meeting of the retail division of the chamber. Stores presently are closing at 5:30 in the afternoon. The 9 o'clock closing time will be observed on Saturday evenings as usual.

The board of directors of the chamber will meet Friday night to consider adoption of the chamber budget for the year.

power, asserting that American entry into the European conflict would be certain to be followed by a regimentation of authority which would make this practically a totalitarian government.

The committee said the United States was not vulnerable to direct attack by any means whatever "save those with which a thoroughly modern navy and air force can deal adequately."

Observing that future consideration of a two-ocean fleet may be necessary, the committee recommended extension of the existing submarine and naval air bases in the Panama canal area. It said it might be desirable to consider the question of building a canal across Nicaragua.

Pershing's Statement

General Pershing, who led the A.E.F. in France two decades ago, counseled against any delay, in a rare public statement.

"Every energy in this country should be devoted to the idea of putting the United States in a condition of thorough preparedness against the possibility of war," he said on arriving yesterday from a winter's sojourn in the west.

"Preparedness is as necessary today as it was when war was declared in 1917, and we find ourselves in the same condition."

The 79-year-old general pointed out that then the allies "protected us during more than a year of preparation."

"Today," he added, "the situation is utterly different."

President Roosevelt, working in his shirt sleeves, conferred yesterday with congressional and military leaders and then told reporters that the armaments race had been forced upon the country and that it must keep abreast.

National defense is the important thing, he said, and the method of financing it is of secondary consideration.

Authoritative sources said that the president would recommend an increase of $726,000,000 in army funds and $250,000,000 more for the navy.

Residents Missed in Census Asked to Make Own Reports

To assure an accurate census in Appleton, Mayor John Goodland, Jr., today asked residents who have not been visited by the census enumerators to take the initiative by making their reports.

Residents who know they have not been included in the census may obtain blanks at the Chamber of Commerce office, city clerk's office in city hall, or the Post-Crescent. With each blank, a person receives an envelope addressed to the proper census headquarters and bearing postage.

"I am sure that residents of Appleton are highly interested in a complete and accurate count on this city's population and that they will cooperate willingly to this end," Mayor Goodland said. "Appleton will not be satisfied with results that are only approximate and I urge all citizens who have not been tabulated by the census representatives to correct this omission."

It was reported today that the census takers have completed their work in all but two wards of the city, the Second and the Twelfth. People living in these wards are asked to wait until they know the survey is completed, then if they have not been included they may obtain their blanks at one of the three places mentioned earlier.

Residents of the other 16 wards in the city where the census is finished who have not been enumerated should immediately make out their reports.

Mrs. Sophie Malchow is enumerator in the Second ward and John Burke in the Twelfth.

Stephen Balliet Made Permanent Postmaster By Action of Senate

The senate late yesterday confirmed the nomination of Stephen D. Balliet as the postmaster at Appleton, according to an Associated Press report.

This action means Balliet is postmaster "without term" or until retirement under civil service laws passed in June of 1938 which apply to first, second, and third class post offices. The act specifies postmasters must retire at the age of 70.

Other postmaster nominations confirmed yesterday by the senate were: Raymond Novotny, Oshkosh; Walter A. Frome, Black Earth; William F. Dahmen, Cross Plains; Paul W. Cornish, Fort Atkinson; Aloys H. Vos, Kassaville; John T. Helsing, Port Wing, and Kathryn C. Meisner, Wittberg.

Twenty-five sheep and lambs at the farm of Harold Van Straten, town of Bovina, were killed last night by stray dogs, it was reported this morning to Undersheriff Fred Frank. Damage was estimated at $300. Van Straten told Frank that he had been having trouble with stray dogs at his farm and that he had killed eight or nine of them in the last few weeks.

bravely fought against an overwhelming enemy. But they were not equal to modern weapons.

"Not only the soldiers but even the civil population has suffered enormously. Rotterdam was bombed and destroyed. Utrecht had the same fate. Thus we were compelled to lay down our arms."

"Our towns have been bombarded, our women and children have been bombed, and the German army force took a toll of thousands of victims. Military and non-military objectives were bombed."

"I, the commander-in-chief, gave the order to cease firing in order to spare further bloodshed and complete destruction of the country. At least a small part of our beautiful country will be saved. You can understand how hard it was for me to decide as I did."

From London Queen Wilhelmina sent a proclamation that "the Netherlands will one day, with the help of God, re-win its whole European territory."

America's Unity Must Be Achieved In Face of Peril

Drift Into War Psychology Has Come With Rapidity, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—The drift into a war psychology has come with astonishing rapidity since last Friday. Though the invasion of Holland and Belgium is less than a week old, the seeming inevitability of American participation in some form has seized public opinion and reflected itself in a nervous, jittery congress.

Overnight, all sorts of changes have entered the picture. The New Dealers, with almost ghoulish glee, are already interpreting current events in terms of their own selfish ambitions, little realizing that if America's unity in the face of national peril is to be achieved, it will have to be by eradication of class conflict and much of the so-called social legislation which has been put on the statute books.

For one thing, the Wage and Hour law will have to be scrapped in the larger industries, at least, as the demand grows for speedier production and overtime shifts. Technical quibbling by means of such conflict-provoking institutions as the present labor board will have to be summarily ended. Business will not be able to reach higher production levels unless output per man can be materially increased. France found the 40-hour week was the main reason for her delay in getting armament, and England had to abandon the shorter work week. The Germans and the Japanese are using 60-hour work weeks.

On the side of management and capital there will doubtless be limitation and sharp regulation of profits. But unless a collectivist system is to be accepted—and its introduction will mean a long period of disunity—the only way to get higher and higher production is by the expansion of the present economic system operated by the present managers of private business.

3rd Term Debate

The third term debate comes into the problem very directly. If Mr. Roosevelt is to be accepted as third term candidate, he must rid the government of the radical elements which are really interested in imposing a collectivist system. Unless the president can give business men the assurance that he will play ball with them and not use the war to allow more government ownership and more delegation of power in the hands of collectivists, there will be a tragic era of disunity in America.

Undoubtedly Hitler is counting on American incapacity to unite in a crisis. He counted heavily on the bickering inside the British and French democracies and he judged the two countries well. They are unprepared today to meet the Nazi air force and mechanized armies.

The plight of the allies has brought the beginnings of a period of unparalleled apprehension. Confidence in the ability of the allies to hold on till the United States can bring help is being impaired by the news bulletins from abroad. If the British and French have a well-prepared plan of defense and are in a position to hold off their enemy till next spring, then American aid may be expected to be forthcoming, but the Nazi war machine is a form of propaganda that is beginning to do on this side of the Atlantic what it has done to all neutrals in Europe—paralyze a people.

What can America do to help? No longer is there much talk of what is neutral or unneutral. Washington is full of plans and proposals—everything from a panicky desire to turn over all planes available, to a plea for repeal of the ban on war loans.

Simplest Approach

The simplest approach to the problem would seem to be to build in the United States a huge war laboratory with ten of thousands of planes in production and with a war machine designed for our own use, but giving its immediate output to the allies at low cost. The revision of the Johnson act and other laws might take considerable time and produce more cleavages inside the United States. But there is no law to prevent sale of surplus property or war materials if purchased by foreign governments. Instead of credits to the allies, the American government might buy the output of all airplane factories and stimulate, through the R.F.C. capital loans, the building of more and more planes.

The planes could be sold at low prices—even at a loss by the American government—in order to insure continuous production until such time as America needs the planes for her own defense.

Federal appropriations for war purposes are usually phrased in a flexible way, and if purchased by the American government, were centralized and planes sold to foreign governments direct through foreign purchasing commissions working in close cooperation with the American government, the allied armies would be assured of a tremendous supply of bombers and defense planes. Modification of the so-called neutrality laws would doubtless be made later, but the problem of making government loans now would be avoided altogether, thus enabling our army and navy to maintain complete control of production of planes and war materials in America and reducing waste to a minimum.

Some method of helping the allies win the war without making government loans seems to be in prospect. It may involve subsidizing

The Necessary Plan of American Defense

If we keep cool, and do not let ourselves become rattled, we shall not appreciate another $500,000,000 for national defense until we have re-examined and reconsidered the fundamental plan of our national defense. The American people have been misled once by the politicians into thinking that whatever happens, America is secure. They must not be misled again by politicians into thinking that something has been done. If congress excitedly appropriates another $500,000,000, the situation is too serious for such trifling. Before anything practical can be done, the American people must open their eyes to the fact that the whole plan, that the fundamental plan of American defense upon which we have relied, may collapse altogether within the next few weeks.

For the congressional appropriations, large as they look, are based on a theory which may have been smashed to pieces before congress adjourns, before either party can hold its convention. There is nothing to be done and there is nothing this country can begin to do until the people, the congress, and our national leaders have honestly faced that possibility.

Our system of national defense is based on the assumption that our vital interests and our security will never be threatened in more than one of the two oceans at the same time, and never by a naval power that is as strong as ourselves. Our program for defense rests upon the hope and the belief that if we are threatened in the Pacific, we have a navy stronger than Japan's; that if we are threatened in the Atlantic, we have a navy stronger than the combined navies of the totalitarian states. Thus we are assuming that if we had to fight in the Pacific, we could count on the Atlantic upon the benevolent neutrality of all European powers. We are assuming that if we are threatened in the Atlantic, we could count upon the neutrality of Japan.

These assumptions upon which are founded the whole American system of security, are true as long as Great Britain and France retain control of the Atlantic ocean. Then we cannot be attacked in the Atlantic, and our navy is sufficient to guard our interests in the Pacific. But if the Allies fall, the whole conception of the American defense falls with them and the whole theory on which we are operating is false. We have a one-ocean navy. A one-ocean navy can protect only one ocean.

If U. S. is Challenged It Will be on Both Sides

If the United States can be challenged only by one inferior naval power in one ocean at a time, then the United States will not be challenged at all. If the United States is challenged it will be challenged in both oceans at once and from within this hemisphere as well. Unless we are prepared at all to defend our security and our vital interests, and any program of national defense which Congress may now consider will be a failure and a delusion unless it is based upon a clear and resolute recognition of this truth.

The crucial fact about our position is that such a coalition in the two oceans is now a practical possibility, perhaps even an imminent probability. If the Nazi offensive succeeds, and no man can be sure it will not, a coalition of European and Asiatic powers may now consider it well to come into being. A Nazi victory in western Europe is bound to create such a coalition, to invite war plants to take risks in starting airplane production on a vast scale and a level of low prices to the allies. This would be justified on the basis that the allies are helping us build our defense machine, avoid the obsolescence and constructing a plant capable of winning this war or the next one, when, as so many are ready to believe, America will ultimately be forced into conflict with the conquerors of Britain and France.

YOU CAN TELL CAMEL CIGARETTES ARE SLOWER-BURNING. THEY'RE MILD AND COOLER

SCIENTIFIC tests have confirmed it, but you can tell just by smoking Camels that they are slower-burning. You'll find Camels free from the excess heat and irritating qualities of too-fast burning...extra mild and extra cool. You'll find a full, rich flavor that only Camel's matchless blend and slower way of burning can give. And on top of the extra pleasure, you'll find Camels also give extra smoking (see right).

FOR EXTRA MILDNESS, EXTRA COOLNESS, EXTRA FLAVOR—
CAMELS
SLOW-BURNING COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Would he bring the Navy into the Atlantic; if so, how would he guard the Pacific? The problem is insoluble; two oceans cannot be protected with one navy. If the Allies fall, we shall be surrounded by victorious powers. Their threats will be more numerous than our capacity to deal with them. We shall not be invaded. We shall be driven from Munich to Munich, and gradually strip of our possessions and our outlying vital interests and of the strategic means to defend ourselves.

This critical position cannot be repaired by the simple device of appropriating more money for warships, airplanes and military equipment. It would require years, several years at the minimum, to create the facilities, the shipyards and the factories, and to train the skilled workers and the officers and men. It is an impossibility for us to create a two-ocean navy except by a gigantic national effort extending over many years and by an expenditure which may conservatively be estimated at $7,000,000,000. If the Allies fall this summer, and Europe and Asia and Africa are conquered by a victorious coalition of the aggressor states, the redistribution of the resources and of the strategic points of the world's surface will be carried out with no more respect for our wishes and our interests than we are able to command with such power as we now possess. We must have no illusions that, thereafter, we shall be allowed to proceed without interference to construct a two-ocean navy and a mighty air force and an adequate army. Once they are in possession of the resources of the Allied empires and of the strategic bases which dominate the two oceans, the totalitarian victors in this war will not sit around and wait until we have made ourselves formidable. They will act to prevent us from making ourselves formidable.

Because it will necessarily take a long time to make adequate our means of defense, a successful resistance by the Allies is a vital interest of the United States. Only by their successful resistance can we gain the precious time we must absolutely have in order to prepare ourselves adequately. For that reason the only practical plan of American defense is to proceed at once to a vast expansion of plants and personnel for the making of warships, airplanes and military equipment; to sell to the Allies as fast as we can the armaments that can be turned out at once, while we build up for ourselves, in the event of their defeat, the capacity to produce adequate armaments. What those facilities can produce immediately we should sell immediately to Allies. With those weapons they may be able to withstand the attack in so far as they do, their successful defense will provide us with the infinitely precious time we shall need to develop the industrial capacity needed for our own defense; and if the Allies fall, we shall at least have made a start toward preparing ourselves for the emergency which will then confront us.

Urges Employers to Release Guardsmen For 3-Week Training

Madison — (AP) — Adjutant General Ralph M. Innell urged employers of Wisconsin National Guardsmen Tuesday to arrange vacation schedules so guardsmen would be able to receive three weeks of training at the army maneuvers at Camp McCoy Aug. 11 to 31.

An extra week will be necessary to obtain the maximum results from the large troop concentration which will bring together 65,000 army regulars and guardsmen, Innell said.

National guardsmen constantly make substantial contributions to national defense and constitute the bulk of our defensive forces ready for immediate service," he added. "It is not intended that this additional training will jeopardize the civilian employment of any member of the national guard because of his patriotic willingness to undergo military training."

Innell said the maneuvers would provide every officer and soldier with a vast amount of tactical and logistical training.

ROCK OF GIBRALTAR
If you look at a map, showing southern Europe and northern Africa, you will find a place where Spain seems almost to touch Africa. The water between is the Strait of Gibraltar.

The Strait of Gibraltar is the only waterway from the Atlantic ocean to the Mediterranean sea. Any nation which can control the strait will have great help in time of war.

A few years ago, Mussolini sent thousands of Italian soldiers to Spain to help General Franco. It seems likely that one of his objects was to work toward a time when he could seize power over the Strait of Gibraltar. With Franco as his friend, his forces might try to blast the British from the Rock of Gibraltar.

The strait is 36 miles long. The widest part measures 23 miles. The narrowest part is only eight and a half miles wide.

With modern cannon it is quite simple to fire across the strait. Some huge cannon will send a shell to a distance of 60 miles or more. We are told that the aim is not good at such distance, but it is easy to bombard a point 10 or 15 miles away.

Ceuta, a Spanish seaport city, is across the strait from the Rock of Gibraltar. The distance between is about 15 miles. If Mussolini's soldiers used Ceuta as a base, they might do a great deal of damage to the Rock of Gibraltar.

Let no one suppose, however, that the capture would be easy. The Rock of Gibraltar still remains one of the world's mighty forts. The Rock of Gibraltar is a huge mass of rock, mainly limestone. It rises to a height of 1,408 feet, which means it is higher than the Empire State building.

A hundred and sixty years ago, the Rock of Gibraltar was under attack by Spain. The attacks lasted more than three years, and in the end they failed. That gave the Rock the name of being a fort which no one could capture.

A modern attack would mean bombardment from land, sea and air. The battle might prove hard, but I think the Rock of Gibraltar would last through a very long siege.

Dodgers Back in First Place After 13-Inning Victory

Beat Reds, 6-5; Boston Red Sox Edge Out Chicago Pale Hose

BY JUDSON BAILEY Associated Press Sports Writer

THE Brooklyn Dodgers can't be accused of dodging the issue. They went to grips with the Cincinnati Reds yesterday and came up with a 6-5 13-inning victory that put them back into first place in the National league and that's about all even the Flatbush fans could ask. Three days in second place isn't a very heavy sentence.

The first four have to like about the dauntless Dodgers in their spirit. They battle for every inch.

In yesterday's game the Reds started Buck Walters, the sinker-ball specialist who has won five and not been defeated. The Dodgers went right to work on him for two runs on a single, a walk and a triple by Dolph Camilli. After Cincinnati tied the score, Brooklyn bounced back with two more runs in the seventh.

Dodgers Battle

When Cincinnati tied again in the ninth and took the lead in the tenth, the Dodgers kept battling. They scored a run on two singles and finally around an infield out. And finally in the thirteenth they pushed across the winning run—Gene Moore getting a walk, Leo Durocher a single, and pinchhitter Gus Mancuso a fly.

The Reds protested the game over a play in the seventh inning. A rounder by Charles Gilbert seemed to strike Umpire Bill Klem. Second baseman Lonnie Frey fielded the ball, but Gilbert beat the throw to first and Durocher was allowed to go from second to third. Manager Bill McKechnie claimed Durocher should have been held on second base on Gilbert's hit but Klem maintained the ball did not strike him.

It took another extra-inning struggle for the Boston Red Sox to edge out the Chicago White Sox 7-6, and Jimmie Fox as so often in the past was the hero for the American league leaders. His second home-run of the game and eighth of the season came in the tenth and decided the outcome. Jim Tabor also hit one for Boston in the fourth.

The White Sox Got into the Game

In the fourth inning when Eric McNair doubled with the bases loaded to account for three runs. After Boston added another tally in the fifth Chicago solved the riddle with a two-run attack in the sixth, tying the score at 3 and 3.

A run in the seventh put Chicago ahead but Boston tied it in the eighth on Fox's walk. Joe Cionni's single and a fly to McNair in short right field. Fox's wallop in the tenth was the Boston victory margin.

Herb Hash Takes Over

Herb Hash took over the mound chores from Grove at the start of the seventh but gave way to Emerson Dickman at the beginning of the next inning. Jimmy Rigney started and slaved in the game until Fox had blasted his second homer, getting relief at this point from Cliff Brown.

The Cleveland Indians saw the margin between first and second place widened as they lost a 9-7 hitting flay to the Philadelphia Athletics when Al Simmons delivered a pinch-single with the bases loaded in the ninth. Bob Feller started for the tribe, but gave up seven runs in three and a fraction innings, three on a homer by Wally Moses, three on a homer by Ken Kellner hit

America OUT-OF-DOORS

CREATING FOOD FOR FISH FOOD

By Ozark Ripley

ANY Lakes which have been filled with fingerlings and larger fish have not been particularly good fish producers in the past for some natural reason or other. In Missouri this fact is realized about the Lake of the Ozarks and steps are being taken to provide the fish population with more food by giving the food the fish live upon something to develop its appetite in turn.

That statement may seem a round about one but that is the case. The Lake of the Ozarks has been lacking in vegetation to produce organic matter necessary for the growth of plankton, insect larvae, and other food suitable for game fish, and action is being taken to correct this lack.

Along the water's edge chinquapins are being planted, and smartweed and timothy are being planted on the mud flats. White clover is being placed along the gravel flats and on the steep shores.

Shade will be furnished by the chinquapins and as the water rises the annuals will be killed and furnish quick-rotting organic matter which is expected to increase the plankton growth. This should occur at the time the young fish are hatching from the eggs. Plants located above the reservoir should help to reseed the same area next year. The other plants being put out should furnish a shore vegetation during the growing months which is now lacking or insufficient.

The smartweed will fill a double purpose for it is also a prized food for waterfowl and other birds. The chief concern of those in charge of the work is that the heavy spring rains do not wash the seed put out into the lake and prevent it from taking root.

Many other lakes which have not enough food supply to make for an increase of the game fish population could be well improved by a similar action. Other states will take a keen interest in the results of the Missouri experiment and will be certain to follow the Missouri lead in "showing" many lakes will support a richer fish content if properly prepared by conservation interest. The entire marine life of a lake may be immeasurably improved by natural alterations where natural resources to support the fish have been lacking in the proper quantities.

Benefits for Cleveland Trolley. Gerald Walker took charge of Washington's test against the Detroit Tigers and brought the Senators a 4-2 victory with a two-run homer in the sixth. The victory credited to Dutch Leonard lifted Washington from seventh to fifth in the American league.

The Pittsburgh Pirates pounded on the New York Giants 7-2 to end the Terrific's six-game winning streak and even an old score against Cliff Melton. The southpaw held them helpless on one hit for five innings but in the sixth Pittsburgh launched the bases with three singles scored on a run on a walk and four more on Elbie Fletcher's homer.

The Philadelphia Phillies moved over the Cardinals into fifth place in the National with a 4-0 shutout that Hugh Mulcahy manipulated against the Redbirds. The Philadelphia rightlander kept nine hits scattered and batted in three runs for his own cause.

Record Number of Rookies Making Major Loop Grade

Many Freshman Players Survive Roster Reductions

BY TOM SILVER

CHICAGO—It's never too late to send a rookie back to the bushes, but an almost unprecedented number of them have made the major league grade this season on the basis of the first month's play.

All of the clubs were down to 25 players today, but many freshman players survived roster reductions all along the line.

Thirteen of the 18 big league clubs have at least one rookie playing regularly and six clubs have two yearlings on the starting lineup, exclusive of pitchers. A few of these spent the last end of last season in the majors, but did not clinch their jobs until this year. Many others, of course, are still up but haven't played much yet.

Classy Pair
Cleveland has a classy keystone pair in shortstop Lou Boudreau and second baseman Ray Mack. Many baseball observers say this pair has "made" the Indians a real pennant threat.

Connie Mack came up with a pair of prize infielders, too—second baseman Benny McCoy, an expensive acquisition who played briefly for Detroit last summer, and third baseman Al Rubeling.

Outfielders Walter Judnich and catcher Bob Swift earned varsity positions with the St. Louis Browns in short order. Swift being the only rookie in a regular backstopping job. The Chicago White Sox started out with Bob Kennedy at third and have no regrets, and Jim Poffel has been delivering at shortstop for Washington.

The Red Sox opened with Donnie D'Maggio in the outfield, but Lou Finney ousted him by a red-hot hitting streak.

The outstanding rookie in the National league at this early date is 20-year-old Frank Gustine, smooth-felding second baseman with the Pittsburgh. He is batting a sensational 383 tops for the loop.

New First Baseman

The New York Giants have first baseman Babe Young in the lineup daily and either Nick Witek or Al Glosop both rookies, on second.

Brooklyn's flaming Dodgers are bolstered by outfielder Charles G. G. with occasional aid from shortstop Peeewe Reese and catcher Herman Franks. Cincinnati's plucked its left-field gap with Royce Mike McCormick. Martin Merkle was sparkling at short for St. Louis until an injury felled him.

Cliff Ross has filled the bill so far in Boston. Bee's outfield while Bill Rowell is the regular baseman. The Philies have pepped up with rookie regulars at first and shortstop—Art Mahan and Bob Bragan. Dominic Della-sandro has been on a part-time basis in the Chicago Cubs' outfield and Bobby Matlack has moved in at shortstop.

BAMA TO HAVE YOUNG BACKS

University, Ala.—If Alabama has a good backfield next year you can just about count on one as good or better the following fall.

Not a single one of the backfield candidates is a senior. The two lettermen, Jimmy Nelson and Paul Spencer, will be juniors. Most of the other candidates will be sophomores.

Northwestern Bows to Western Teachers, 14-4

Chicago — (AP) — Northwestern's Wildcats have been going great against Big Ten baseball competition, but outside the league the situation is somewhat different.

Western Michigan teachers moved in on Northwestern at Evans-ton yesterday and gave the conference leaders a 14 to 4 pasting. The invaders collected 14 hits off three pitchers.

Purdue and Indiana fared better against outsiders. The Hoosiers easily defeated Butler, 7 to 1, while the Boilermakers squeaked out a 2 to 1 decision over Notre Dame. Minnesota's game with St. Olaf was rained out.

Michigan is scheduled to play Michigan Normal today in the only other midweek game on tap.

Northwestern puts its top spot on the line in a 2-game series with Wisconsin at Madison Friday and Saturday. Indiana plays at Illinois and Purdue at Michigan.

Horse-collared by Higbe in the season-opener didn't blight the budding National league career of Babe Young, the Giants' big first-baseman from Fordham. Babe started clicking the next day and hit safely in 7 of the next 8 games.

FIELDMEN OF COUNTY TESTING ASSOCIATIONS

Above are fieldmen of Outagamie County Herd Improvement associations. The picture was taken at a recent clinic held in Appleton for the fieldmen and testing association officers. Shown in the picture are: Clyde Olsen, Seymour, tester for association No. 6; Don Brownson, Seymour, tester for association No. 1; more, according to J. F. Magnus, County Agent J. F. Magnus. The new aerial photographs will be used in measuring fields under the AAA farm program.

Members of the Wisconsin Agricultural Conservation committee announced that contract for the aerial photography has been awarded to an aerial survey concern in Chicago on the basis of a bid of $18,583.80.

The photographs, taken in this area this year, will be used in 1941 to replace the aerial photographs taken in 1937. New photographs, it is said, are needed to bring the farm and field boundaries up to date. Since the original pictures were taken many fields have been changed by strip cropping, terrace-ing, tree planting and the adoption of other conservation practices. The new photographs, it is reported, will show all these changes, and will make it easier to check performance.

AAA officials say that aerial photography has been found to be the most economical and accurate method of determining performance on farms under the federal farm program. Crops, grown in fields, are checked on the land by "farm reporters" and only the area of fields is determined from the aerial maps by the use of a planimeter.

Wisconsin counties to be reflowed this year are Columbia, Dane, Dodge, Grant, Green, Iowa, Jefferson, Lafayette, Pepin, Richland, Rock, Sauk and Walworth.

Photographs will be taken at an approximate elevation of 14,000 feet.

County Pastures are Showing Signs of Wear, Magnus Says

Outagamie county pastures have long supplied generous grazing for livestock, but now, in common with other areas, are showing signs of wear, according to J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent.

Livestock has steadily increased in number, and agronomists now say that Wisconsin pastures are heavily overstocked for the grass they are able to produce. That means farmers must either improve pastures or reduce the size of herds and flocks.

While calling attention to this pasture problem in their recent circular, "Plan Wisconsin Pastures," F. V. Burcalow and Gus Bohstedt remind Wisconsin dairymen that they are in competition with those in regions having a longer grazing season. To meet this competition, they point out that farmers must lengthen the time that herds are Examples of how assignments could be used are for the purchase of seed for spring planting or lime or fertilizer for application to earn soil building payments.

Regular interest rates are charged on assignments arranged through established credit agencies.

Arrangements for assignments are made by farmers through their county agricultural conservation association with established lending agencies and with dealers handling seed, lime and fertilizer. These agencies include local banks and the Farm Security administration. The Agricultural Adjustment administration also accepts assignments for the purchase of lime and fertilizer in counties where the newly introduced grants-of-aid program is in effect.

Two carloads of fertilizer have been ordered for Outagamie county through grant-of-aid. No more orders are being taken for fertilizer as the county committee does not feel that they will be able to get another full carload. However, lime orders are being taken at the county office.

The amount of an assignment against a payment to be earned under the AAA program will be deducted from the payment at the end of the year. Farmers are allowed to assign up to 70 per cent of the payment which they are to earn under the conservation program for grant-of-aid.

Aerial Photographs Will be Taken by AAA in 13 Counties

More than 9,500 square miles of land in 13 counties will be mapped from the air about June 1, according to a bulletin received by County Agent J. F. Magnus. The new aerial photographs will be used in measuring fields under the AAA farm program.
